DANA AS A WITNESS.

Secretary Robeson Pricks His Slanderous Bubble.

Bartlett and His Protege Withdraw from the Prosecution.

Humiliating Admissions Under Cross-Examination.

A Great Many New-York Sun Sensations Spoiled.

Testimony of a Miscellaneous Washington Scribbler.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The prosecutor of the Secretary of the Navy has met with overwhelming disaster. The libeler DANA was himself put on the stand to-night, and all the world will read the story of his disgrace and shame as told by his own lips. Here is the testimony of the man who charged the Secretary of the Navy with being a robber. The scene during his examination was laughable, painful and shameful by turns. Under ROBESON's sharp cross-examination DANA was skinned like an eel. He and his henchman, BARTLETT, are reported to have withdrawn from the case.

CHARLES A. DANA sworn and examined by Mr. SARGENT:

Q.—What is your residence? A.—New-York.

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—Editor of a newspaper.

Q.—What is the name of that newspaper? A.—The New-York Sun.

Q.—In the Sun from Feb. 19th to March 14th there has been a series of articles relating to the Navy Department and to Secretary ROBESON; who is the author of those articles? A.—If you will allow me to look at them I can tell you. (After examination.) Yes, Sir; I wrote them.

Q.—Did you then state facts within your knowledge as far as they related to Secretary ROBESON, or on information and belief? A.—I stated the facts on information and belief.

Q.—Are any of the facts there stated within your own knowledge? A.—No, Sir, not within my own personal knowledge.

Q.—Who was your informant that E. G. CATTELL, a ship-chandler in Philadelphia, purchased all the supplies for the navy? A.—That information was communicated to me confidentially by a person in such a situation that to reveal his name would do him an injury.

Q.—You decline to state from whom you received that information? A.—I decline to do an injury to the person who told me this confidentially.

Q.—Is that person in the Navy Department? A.—He is not.

Q.—Is that person in the service of the Government? A.—He is not.

Q.—In what way then can the statement of the person who gave you that information do him an injury? A.—That person is employed in a situation in which if I reveal his name the revelation would do him injury.

Q.—An injury by losing his position? A.—Injury by suffering in various ways.

Q.—In what way? A.—By the loss of his position, and by incurring the enmity of persons who could do him an injury.

Q.—Did this same person also inform you that CATTEL and ROBESON were interested in the purchase of iron for torpedo boat? A.—This same person gave me that information.

Q.—Did you receive your information in reference to any of these charges in the New-York Sun from any other person? A.—Yes, Sir, from various persons.

Q.—Name them. A.—They are all in the same relation with that person.

Q.—Every one of your informants is in such a position that to reveal their names would do them an injury, therefore you cannot give us the name of any person? A.—As far as the information is derived from public documents, from the debates of Congress and acts of Congress and from the reports of the Executive Departments, of course this remark does not apply; very much of the information has been gathered in that manner.

Q.—Who informed you that the Secretary of the Navy was interested in the Chester Iron-works? A.—I think my information was given to me by the same person I have already spoken of.

Q.—What means of information did this person have? A.—I do not know what his means of information were; I have not investigated that.

Q.—You did not investigate the truth of the charges he made? A.—I asked several persons if there was a general rumor and belief being circulated that these charges were true, and they said there was.

Q.—Who told you there was a general rumor and belief to that effect? A.—I cannot remember the names.

Q.—You cannot remember any persons who told you? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—You cannot state the name of any person you asked about it? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—The one person you have named gave this varied information. You asked persons if there was a public rumor or belief that the information was true, and you cannot give the name of any person who thus furnished you the basis of those articles in the New-York Sun? A.—The basis was the statement of the original party in whose character and information I had confidence.

Q.—Did that person request you to conceal his name? A.—He did.

Q.—He told you all these things, but he told you not to tell that he said it? A.—He communicated it to me in confidence.

Q.—Confidence so far as the name was concerned? A.—Confidence so far as his personality was concerned.

Q.—Did he say that he knew these things of his own knowledge, or did he state to you how he knew it? A.—I understood him that he knew them of his own knowledge and belief—that he was satisfied they were true.

Q.—What evidence did this person present? A.—No other evidence than as I have stated.

Q.—Did he speak of the Secretary as the greatest robber in the country? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—That is in your article? A.—The language of the article is an inference from the facts developed, so far as they were developed.

Q.—The statement was that CATTELL is the purchasing agent of the whole Navy Department; that they made a contract for iron whereby $100,000 was realized upon that single item, and upon that statement you based your inference which you incorporated into your article as a fact that the Secretary of the Navy was the greatest robber in America? A.—The facts that have been developed within the last three or four days in regard to the purchase of iron from PENNOCK & Co. go very far to justify the statement.

Mr. SARGENT—I do not wish to argue the matter.

WITNESS—He stated also that the iron was furnished under this contract for less than the market price for that quality of iron. He stated also that iron that was good enough for this purpose could be bought for a good deal less.

Q.—Who was your informant that said that several hundred thousand bricks were purchased in Philadelphia, shipped to New-York, and sent around the Horn to California? A.—That was communicated to me in the same manner and by the same person.

Q.—By this same person of universal information? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did he say that he knew that of his own knowledge? A.—I did not ask him whether he had any personal knowledge of it or not; he stated that he knew it to be so.

Q.—You did not take the pains to sift the matter at all, to ascertain whether there was any corroborating evidence? A.—So far as the bricks were concerned I did not; finding that some of his statements were confirmed, and those the most important ones, confirmed by Congressional documents, I believed the others to be true.

Mr. SARGENT stated that he desired the advice of the Committee as to what course they should take in reference to the witness refusing to give the name of his informant.

Mr. PETERS stated that, if Mr. DANA was willing to have his informant stand as a myth, he was of opinion that the Committee should not press him further. He desired, however, to put some questions to him at this point.

By Mr. PETERS—I understand you that the facts alleged in your articles, which are extensions of the evidence which you introduced, came from one person? A.—And from official documents and Congressional reports which have not yet been introduced.

Q.—You have but one person as your informant? A.—But one for the charges that Mr. SARGENT has referred to.

Q.—What I want to know is, whether there is more than one individual who was your informant of the facts on which you base your charges in these articles? A.—There were two or three, but the main facts were derived from a careful examination of the public documents and Congressional debates and the acts of Congress and public reports.

Q.—Did your informant give you the names of persons who have not been introduced here, and who can give us their knowledge of these charges? A.—No, Sir; I wish to say that if it had been possible for us to go on with the investigation in the manner we desired, we should have produced evidence, and were ready to produce witnesses upon these various points.

Q.—What do you mean by evidence and witnesses? A.—Witnesses and documents.

Q.—Will you give us the names of the witnesses that we may introduce their testimony? A.—I have them not in mind now; I will communicate them to you.

Q.—Will you give us a list in writing of the names? A.—I will, and state also what I would also expect to prove by them.

Mr. SARGENT—You will also please furnish a list of public documents to which you wish to call the attention of the Committee? A.—I will do so.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

The Secretary of the Navy was then informed that if he desired to propound any questions to the witness it was his right to do so, and he would now have that opportunity.

By the Secretary of the Navy.—In the article of Feb. 26, I find this sentence, "We say that CATTELL has been empowered by ROBESON, his associate in robbery, to buy for the Navy Department all the coal that is required for the navy steam-ships. We say that CATTELL buys this coal, not by public competition but privately, paying such prices as he chooses, and that he doubtless divides with ROBESON the money of which they thus rob the Government. We say that he pays on the average $3 a ton for this coal in Philadelphia and receives $5 a ton from the Navy Department. The amount of coal to be consumed by the navy in the year 1872 is estimated at 600,000 tons, the profits on which to CATTELL and ROBESON will be, in round figures, $1,200,000—all pure robbery." I would like to know the authority of that statement? A.—That statement as to the quantity of coal is entirely a mistake; the navy does not consume any such quantity, and the statement is a blunder of the pen; I suppose the navy consumes altogether not over 30,000 or 40,000 tons a year.

Q.—I would like to know the authority for the statement that they buy at $3 and sell at $5? A.—If I had been allowed to introduce witnesses I should have been able to prove this in the course of a few days, if allowed to do it in my own way before the Committee.

Q.—By the evidence of documents or witnesses? A.—Both.

Q.—What witnesses? A.—I will communicate the names to Judge SARGENT.

Q.—Give us some of the names now? A.—I do not remember them now.

Q.—What documents? A.—The evidence in the navy reports that no contracts have been made during the last year.

Q.—I am now speaking of Mr. CATTELL's buying coal? A.—As far as Mr. CATTELL's buying coal is concerned, that statement was made on information, I believe.

Q.—I read from the article further: "As there is no seasoned live oak to be had, these vessels must be built of iron; and, in view of this contingency, the Chester Iron-works, near Philadelphia, have been purchased by ROBESON and his associates to the job. Among the partners in the Chester Iron-works are JOHN ROACH, of whom we have already spoken; A. G. CATTELL, of Philadelphia, and GEORGE M. ROBESON, Secretary of the Navy." What authority have you for that statement? A.—That comes to me from the same source.

Q.—Did you ask anybody else about that? A.—I do not think I did.

Q.—Did you have the records examined to see if there was anything of that kind? A.—There would not be any record of the formation of any such partnership.

Q.—There would not be any record anywhere of the ownership of the Chester Iron-works? A.—The Chester Iron-works have been notoriously bought by Mr. JOHN ROACH, but the names of his partners were not published, and the probability of that statement was also greatly confirmed in my mind by the fact of the peculiar relations between Mr. ROACH and the Navy Department.

Q.—Then you made that statement upon the information of the person you speak of, and fortified it by the peculiar relations of Mr. ROACH with the Navy Department? A.—That is so.

Q.—Is there any other reason? A.—I thought that was sufficient.

Q.—Is that all? A.—I have no other.

Q.—In speaking, on March 2, of what is called the Second Claim, you said that I received the $93,000 myself. What authority have you for that statement? A.—That was communicated to me at the time the fact was originally communicated. I am satisfied since that it was a mistake.

Q.—You have been a public officer in this City? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And know something of the course of business in the Departments? A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew, did you not, that no bill could be paid at the Treasury except to the person in whose favor it was drawn? A.—No bill could be paid, but a man could go with him and get the money.

Q.—But no bill could be paid except to the man? A.—Except on his receipt.

Q.—Had you any information upon the fact to lead you to believe that I went and drew that money? A.—I believed that the money came into your hands.

Q.—From what reason? A.—From the extra ordinary nature of the payment. I could not conceive of a man making such a payment with any honest motive or purpose.

Q.—Is that all? A.—That, and I was informed also that it was corruptly made.

Q.—By whom? A.—The evidence on that subject, all that I have produced here.

Q.—But you were informed by whom? A.—I do not remember who it was who first told me of the SECOR payment.

Q.—Who informed you it was completely paid? A.—The information upon that subject I derived from the public records, and when I saw the law had been violated.

Q.—You say that you were also informed that I received the money. By whom were you so informed? A.—I do not remember.

Q.—It was rather an important piece of information was it not? A.—It was.

Q.—How long is it since it came to you? A.—It came to me at the time the original fact came to me.

Q.—How long since? A.—I do not remember. The date is given then.

Q.—On the 2d of March? A.—I do not remember the date whereon the fact was published first.

Q.—And you have since forgotten the name of the person who gave you the information? A.—I have.

Q.—Entirely? A.—I talked with people about it; I showed this to several in my office, and it was a subject of common conversation then.

Q.—But somebody informed you that I received that money. Now, have you forgotten the name of the person who so informed you, since the 2d of March? A.—I desire to say that this information was in my hands for a long time, that is, for many days before I published it, during which time I had the documents of Congress investigated, and satisfied myself that it was true; during that time there were many persons in my office who talked with me about it, and to whom I talked about it, and some one among them, I cannot remember who it was, said that this was a corrupt payment, and that you had received the money, no doubt.

Q.—Tell me the name of one of them? A.—I do not remember.

By Mr. PETERS—Q.—Was that the expression of an opinion or a statement of a fact? A.—Well, it was partly both. I do not think there was any man who claimed to have seen it put into Mr. ROBESON's pocket.

Q.—I understand you to say now that you are satisfied that he did not receive any part of it? A.—Oh, no, Sir; I have not said that. I am not satisfied of that at all. I am satisfied that he did not go to the Treasury himself and draw the money.

By the ACTING CHAIRMAN: Q.—Did any one tell you that he did go to the Treasury with any one else to draw the money? A.—No, I do not remember that anybody did.

Q.—Did anybody tell you that anybody else went and drew it, and went to his office and paid him the money? A.—No I do not remember that these details were mentioned at all.

Q.—Was the statement an inference drawn from the premises, or did he speak from special knowledge of his own? A.—I cannot say with absolute certainty, but I should rather suppose more an inference, than a pretense of absolute personal knowledge; as I said before, no one stated that he had seen him put the money in his pocket.

Q.—But the statement made firstly at that date in the paper was that he drew money and put it in his own pocket? A.—Well, he might draw the money indirectly. If I send a check to the bank on which the money is drawn for me, I really draw it, although it may be carried by a third person.

Q.—I understand you to say that this was an inference of corruption from the fact that you thought the law of Congress was violated in the payment. Now, that inference is different from a direct statement? A.—I was—

Mr. ROBESON (interrupting)—To whom did ROBESON hand over the money thus stolen from the Treasury—that is the statement in the paper, and he must have had it to hand it over?

By Mr. PETERS—You say in one of these articles that the Secretary has made about a million and a half out of these transactions. Do you still adhere to that statement? Do you think it is as much as that? A.—The statement there, I think, is that we cannot tell how much he has made, but from a rough estimate we think it is about a million and a half.

Q.—Would you now be willing to come down from that sum a little? A.—In that, I think, the statement of the engines of the Tennessee was exaggerated; in regard to that, we were evidently mistaken.

Q.—So that you would not put it at more than a million? A.—I should say, perhaps, not more than a million; in another place it is stated at $500,000.

By Mr. ROBESON—Here is a statement: "Secretary ROBESON and his partner, CATTELL, have found so much profit in the business of buying bricks in Philadelphia and sending them round Cape Horn to California for Government use, that they desire to extend their field of operations. They have accordingly induced Mr. COGHLAN to introduce a bill into the House of Representatives, directing the Secretary to build, at an expense of $500,000, and at the earliest practicable time, two excavated dry docks, at the Mare Island Navy-yard. It is needless to say that there will be an opportunity of swallowing up bricks, not by the thousand, but by the million, with a proportionate amount of pecuniary advantage to ROBESON and CATTELL!" A.—I do not remember the statement.

Q.—It appears in the article of March 6? A.—I do not remember it.

Q.—It follows with another statement of the sending of the bricks to California? A.—That is an editorial article.

Q.—Yes; on March 6? A.—That was written, I think, upon a bill introduced in the House of Representatives.

Q.—I dare say; but what induced you to say that Mr. COGHLAN had been induced by the Secretary and by CATTELL to take part in this thing? A.—A large quantity of bricks were required for this purpose, and the brick business appeared to be so profitable in that direction that we supposed there might be some connection between them.

Q.—Is that the only ground for that statement? A.—That is the authority for it.

Q.—And upon that supposition you accused not only CATTELL and myself, but COGHLAN also? A.—There is no imputation on COGHLAN, so far as I remember.

Q.—On March 11 you say: "Taking the facts already within our knowledge, a rough calculation shows that his robberies will not amount to less than $1,400,000." Now, what facts have you in your possession or within your knowledge, as you say, to justify that statement? A.—The Secor fraud; the two Secor frauds and—

Q.—How much is that? A.—That was written before the Tennessee case was investigated; Mr. SARGENT has just interrogated me about it.

Q.—How much of the Secor frauds did I get of your own knowledge—you speak there of your own knowledge? A.—By knowledge there I do not mean personal knowledge.

Q.—Oh, you do not? A.—No, Sir; and it does not say personal knowledge.

Q.—Then when you say within our knowledge you do not mean that you have any knowledge about it? A.—Yes; when you say that a thing is within your knowledge you mean that you know it, that it is a fact, that you have learned from reading, from information, from—

Q.—Well, go on; you have mentioned the Secor claim; how much of that did I get on your knowledge that you have from information and reading? A.—I have no means of knowing; I only know the aggregate amount of the claim; I am not able to state how it was divided.

Q.—Suppose you take it all then and go on, what next? A.—The Tennessee case.

Q.—How much of that did I get? A.—That was put down originally at $400,000.

Q.—I got $400,000? A.—No, you did not get that; I am stating that that was an error or exaggeration.

Q.—What next? A.—I do not remember; I am not prepared to go into an arithmetical calculation.

Q.—You were prepared to make that statement in a public newspaper, but you are not prepared to establish it even by supposititious figures. A.—I have established a considerable portion of it by evidence before this Committee.

Q.—No, you have not. That question remains to be decided. Are you prepared to make any other statement?

Mr. PETERS—He says that he does not call it more than a million now.

Mr. ROBESON—That is leaving the Tennessee out.

Q.—Have you ever taken any means to know whether I was a rich man or a poor man? A.—I only know from public notoriety.

Q.—Public notoriety from whom? A.—General opinion and belief which is circulating around in the community.

Q.—That is all? A.—That is all.

Q.—Did you ever take any means of finding out? A.—Not beyond that.

Q.—There are means of knowing that kind of thing? A.—There are, I presume; the opinion prevails that you spend a great deal more money than you earn, and that is the foundation of this general belief.

Q.—That is all is it? Did you ever take any means of verifying it in any way or shape? A.—I have never investigated your income on property.

Q.—Have you any idea how much I spend in any way or shape? A.—No.

Q.—You never have had? A.—Not any precise idea.

Q.—In speaking of what is called the Corliss claim, you say you have good authority for saying that money has been paid and divided up. What is your authority for that—your good authority? A.—I do not remember the very phrase that is used—that is, the word.

Q.—You speak of the amount, $257,686, and you say: "Pending this investigation, however, we have excelent reason to know that ROBESON has paid this dishonest claim, every cent of it; how it was divided, and what share the great robber in the Navy Department got, we are not able to state."

Q.—What are your "excellent reasons" for knowing these things? A.—That article I did not write, and I did not myself make personally the investigation of the Corliss claim that is detailed there.

Q.—Who wrote that article? A.—That is a confidential matter that I am not able to state.

Q.—When you put a confidential article in your newspaper, you assume the responsibility? A.—I take the responsibility of it, certainly.

Q.—Without investigation? (No answer.)

Q.—Who is the author of the letter published in the Sun on the 17th of February, signed "America." A.—I have already told Mr. SARGENT that I do not wish to disclose his name.

Q.—That is the same person whom you described awhile ago? A.—The same person.

Q.—Who is the author of the letter of Feb. 19, signed "Ajax?" A.—I really do not remember.

Q.—Did you ever know? A.—I presume I did, but I do not remember now; I must have known, but I do not remember.

Q.—You have forgotten it since the 19th of February? A.—I have forgotten it.

Q.—Who is the author of the letter in the issue of March 5 signed "Sappho?" A.—That is a confidential matter belonging to the office.

Q.—Is WM. P. WOOD the author of that letter? A.—He is not.

Q.—Nor has he had anything to do with it? A.—Not that I am aware of.

Q.—In any way or shape? A.—I do not know that he had anything to do with it in any way or shape.

Q.—Neither as furnishing the material nor making up the article? A.—I cannot state whether he furnished the material: I do not know.

Q.—But you do know who the author is? A.—I do.

Q.—Is it the same person you have referred to? A.—It is not.

Q.—What is his name? A.—I decline to state; he is a writer of the establishment, and I prefer not to give his name.

Q.—A writer in your establishment? A.—A writer in my establishment.

Q.—Is he the same man who wrote the letter of March 5, published in the paper of the 8th of March, signed "Sappho?" A.—I do not remember if the signatures are the same; it is the same man.

Q.—And you do not know who furnished the material? A.—I do not.

Q.—Then you do not know whether these statements are true or not, nor what the authority was for them? A.—I do not remember what the statements are in that letter, but I took them on the authority of the writer.

By Mr. PETERS—Q.—Do you pay for such information? A.—Generally; sometimes we do, and sometimes we do not.

By Mr. ROBESON—Q.—This person from whom you got information, I think you said in answer to Mr. SARGENT, that he was in Philadelphia; did you not? A.—I think not.

Q.—I beg your pardon; I thought you did; but this person who you say is not in the naval service, and not a navy officer, and not in the Government service, how would he be injured if his statements are true, by revealing his name? A.—He would be injured by losing his situation.

Q.—Would the truth injure him? A.—The revelation of the truth might injure him with persons who did not wish to have it revealed.

Q.—Is he in the employ of Mr. CATTELL? A.—He is not so far as I am aware.

Q.—Is he in the employ of any of the parties mentioned in this article? A.—I think not.

Q.—How would he lose his situation then? A.—He would lose his situation by being dismissed by Mr. PETERS.

Q.—How is he in a position to know so much if he is not in juxtaposition with any of the parties named? A.—He is in a situation which enables him to see a great many things.

Mr. ROBESON—On a watch-tower, I suppose.

By Mr. PETERS—Q.—Have you had personal interviews with him? A.—I have not.

Q.—You have not seen him personally? A.—I have not seen him personally.

By Mr. ROBESON—Q.—How many different persons, as near as you can make out, did you derive this information from? A.—I do not remember.

Q.—Can you give me your personal authority for anything? A.—What do you mean by personal authority?

Q.—Are you willing to give the names of any persons from whom you derived this information? A.—I have already stated the reasons why I am not willing to.

Q.—Well, I merely ask you that question. Is there any one person whose name you are willing to mention? A.—I do not now remember one whose name I wish to mention.

Q.—You say in your paper here that there are many witnesses of the direct charges of corruption. Now can you give the name of one witness that will enable the Committee to find any direct evidence of corruption? A.—I have already given the names of several to whom I refer in the article, and they have been produced here; Mr. LENTHAL is one who has testified; the witnesses in the Pennock case have stated facts which bear upon these charges and justify the inference of corruption.

Q.—Have you given all the foundation for that charge which you have? A.—I have; all, except what I should have proposed to introduce in the form of evidence.

Q.—Let us know what that is. A.—I have promised Mr. PETERS to give him the names of witnesses whom I have not now in my mind.

Q.—How soon can you furnish the names of those witnesses? A.—In a very short time.

Q.—How soon? A.—I should think within twenty-four hours.

TESTIMONY OF GIBSON.

A. W. GIBSON was sworn and examined. He testified that he was the author of the letters in the Sun signed "Sappho," which contain some of the charges against the Secretary of the Navy. He also testified to being employed to write for other papers, and that he had a business connection with the Sun. The examination then proceeded:

Q.—Is that your principal newspaper connection? A.—Yes.

By the Acting Chairman—Q.—Do you know any fact in regard to the purchase of iron for torpedo-boats by Mr. CATTELL and the division of the money between him and Secretary ROBESON, of your own knowledge? If so, state it. A.—I do not know that I ever stated it.

Q.—Answer my question, whether you know it or not. A.—I have such information, which I have derived from various persons as well as from the nature of the transactions, as to induce me conscientiously to belive that there was a corrupt bargain made, and from the intimate association which Mr. CATTELL has with the Secretary of the Navy, and his almost daily intercourse with him about the Department, I am induced to believe that he had something to do with the making of this contract.

Q.—Do you know any fact of your own knowledge which shows that the iron for these torpedo-boats was bought by CATTELL, and that he divided the money between himself and Secretary ROBESON? A.—I have no personal knowledge whatever.

Q.—Are you the author of the article in the New-York Sun of Feb. 17 signed "American?" A.—I am not.

Q.—Are you the author of the communication of March 5, signed "Sappho?" A.—I am.

Q.—You say in the article of March 5, "All the coal consumed by the Navy for the present year is purchased through CATTELL; he realizes a handsome profit of from $1 50 to $2 on every ton of coal furnished." What is your authority for that statement? A.—I think I can demonstrate pretty conclusively if I had the opportunity of calling witnesses.

Q.—Answer the question; on what authority do you make that statement? A.—On the authority of parties in Philadelphia.

Q.—Name them? A.—I will give their names.

Q.—Name them now. Name any party in Philadelphia who states of his own knowledge that CATTELL buys coal for the navy. A.—I do not state that he knows it of his own knowledge.

Q.—Give me the name of the person who said that. A.—I will give you hereafter the names of the persons who will testify to certain facts connected with the purchase of that coal.

Q.—Give me the names of the witnesses who will testify that all the coal consumed by the navy during the present year is purchased through the CATTELLS, and that they realize the handsome profit of $1 50 or $2 on every ton of coal furnished. A.—I will give you the names of the witnesses to morrow who will give you such information as I think will lead you to draw the conclusion that Mr. CATTELL had something to do with the purchase of coal, and that in fact it was purchased through Mr. CATTELL or through his influence.

Q.—Give me the names of those witnesses now or some of them. A.—To tell you the truth, I cannot recollect them now.

Q.—Give me the name of any one of them? A.—I cannot give the full names; I think that parties by the name of BORDAY in Philadelphia can testify.

Q.—What is their business? A.—They are coal merchants.

Q.—Did they tell you so? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Name some others? A.—I cannot give you the names of any more to-night; I do not suppose it is necessary to-night.

The ACTING CHAIRMAN—Yes it is. I desire you to testify now.

WITNESS—I decline to give them now.

Q.—Are you able to give them? A.—I am not able to state their full names correctly.

Q.—State them as correctly as you can? A.—I decline to do that; this thing will be published and might do these people injustice.

Q.—If you are able to give the names of witnesses, do so now. A.—I am not able to give them correctly.

By Mr. PETERS—Give some description of them as to occupation, location, or something else. A.—I decline to give them now; I will give them to you to-morrow.

Q.—For what reason do you decline? A.—For the reason that I have stated.

Q.—Restate it. A.—That I do not recollect their names correctly nor their places of business.

Q.—Give their names incorrectly. A.—I decline to do that; you have no right to ask me to do that.

Q.—You say you are the author of this article; who gave you the information on which you wrote that article? A.—A great many persons.

Q.—Give their names. A.—I cannot.

This witness was further examined at length, but failed to furnish any names or facts to substantiate the charges in the Sun, promising, however, to furnish the Committee privately with some names to-morrow.

THE TAX ON LITERATURE.

The Bill Passed by the Ways and Means Committee—The Post-Office Investigation.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Ways and Means Committee in their meeting today took important action in relation to the duties on printed matter. They put the tax on newspapers, magazines and periodicals, unbound, at six cents per pound; on books, and all other printed matter, bound or in sheets, except newspapers, magazines and periodicals, at twelve and a half cents per pound; and reduced the duty on sized paper for books only of a size not less than 26 by 38 inches, from thirty-five per cent. to twenty per cent. ad valorem.

The House today passed—this being the third or fourth effort in as many years—the bill granting $190,000 prize money to the officers and crew of the United States steamship Kearsage for the destruction of the privateer Alabama. Gen. BUTLER said he was in favor of paying these men the money, but that he wanted it to come from the English Treasury, instead of that of the United States. He thought the Alabama was a British-built ship, British armed and British manned, and that therefore this sum should be part of the direct damages to be claimed at Geneva. This is a unique view of the case, but one in which there was a general acquiescence.

There is some comment on the proposal of the Democratic members of the Committee on Post-offices to make a minority report on the investigation of the charges against the Postmaster-General.

There is absolutely no valid ground for a minority report. It is without doubt the policy of the Democrats to disagree in all these matters. An investigation having terminated the Democratic members in some way dissent from the report of the Republican majority, if that report is favorable to the accused. The Democratic journals suppress the majority report as much as possible, and circulate the Democratic report. Those persons who read only the Democratic papers, read and believe and vote the straight party ticket. It is hardly to be expected that a single Democratic Committeeman will agree to any report vindicating the character of a public officer. Their political necessities have already settled that their verdict will be "guilty" in every case. In the case of the Post-office Department, to charge on the evidence that in the matter investigated, the letting of contracts, he did not pursue the proper course is to charge that either he did wrong in asking advice on law questions relating to his Department, of the Attorney-General, or else that having asked and received that advice, he ought to have disregarded it, because he could have saved money to the Government.

Ireland's History, as Revealed in Her Ruins.

The announcement that Rev. Father BURKE was to lecture at the Cooper Institute, on "Ireland's History, as Revealed in Her Ruins," drew, last evening, one of the largest audiences ever seen in the great hall of that place. Every available foot of room was occupied long before the hour for the lecture to commence arrived, and hundreds went away unable to obtain admittance. A large number of priests were among the gentlemen on the platform. The reverend speaker was introduced by Hon. WM. R. ROBERTS, and delivered his lecture in his Dominican habit. His discourse occupied two hours and a half in delivery, and was listened to with the closest attention throughout.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

A Bill to Prohibit Discrimination in Rates of Transportation.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The matter of the discrimination in the rates of transportation by the Union Pacific Railroad Company against the Kansas Pacific Railroad was again considered by the House Pacific Railroad Committee today. Ex-Senator HENDERSON appeared and submitted the draft of a bill which he had been requested to prepare. It provides that it shall be lawful for any one or more of the companies named in the acts of Congress which authorize the construction of these roads, or in any laws amendatory of said acts, and which shall have an interest in enforcing the requirements of said acts in the transportation of persons as passengers over the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, or branches, to commence and prosecute suits, either in the form of an action at law or bill in equity, in any Circuit Court of the United States, or in any Territorial or other Court having jurisdiction of the cause, against any one or more of the said Companies for refusal to comply with the said requirements, or for violation of any provision of the acts of Congress on the subject herein referred to: and on the final hearing of such suit, the Court may proceed to render judgment or decree for all damages found to have been sustained by the complainant, and may proceed to enforce judgment by sequestration or by execution and sale of the road, franchises or other property of the offending company, and the Court may, in such proceeding, if deemed necessary, decree the forfeiture of the charter of such company and deprivation of its corporate rights. A further remedy is proposed by providing that on complaint of any one of the roads named in the aforesaid acts the Secretary of the Interior may proceed to notify the Company complained of and to fix the day for hearing, and on such hearing he shall fix the schedule of rates to be adopted by the said company, and in case such company refuse to adopt such rates he may, in his discretion, proceed to advertise and sell such road subject to existing liens, or report the facts to the President for communication to Congress. A further hearing will be had early next week, upon the arrival of Mr. CARR, President of the Kansas Pacific Company, and Mr. GOOCH, attorney of the Union Pacific Company.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

"DON GIOVANNI" AT THE ACADEMY.

"Don Giovanni" was sung at the Academy of Music, last evening, in presence of a large and brilliant audience. The best features of the representation are already familiar to most opera-goers. Mme. PAREPA-ROSA's personation of Donna Anna will be remembered as one of her finest efforts, both in point of singing and of acting, and Signor RONCONI's Leporello will always be borne in mind as worthy of association with the most felicitous performances of that gifted and experienced artist. The novel points of the entertainment were Mr. SANTLEY's picture of Don Giovanni and Herr WACHTEL's Don Ottavio. We cannot in justice say that Mr. SANTLEY is the ideal Don Giovanni, but we can, as usual, commend his vocal work for its faultlessness, and mention his interpretation of "Deh vieni" among the most delicious specimens of his talent and taste he has yet afforded. Herr WACHTEL's Don Ottavio was, last night, of rather uneven merit. It is needless to note that his superb voice was wondrously effective in the numerous concerted passages of the opera, but the gentleman was not always in tune, and the recital of "Il mio tesoro" was not so conspicuous for sentiment and elegance of phrasing as less impressive performers have often contrived to make it. The contributions of the remaining singers were quite creditable. We cannot, however, enter into details. Mme. VAN ZANDT embodied Zerlina, Miss DORIA Donna Elvira, and M. DUBREUL Masetto. The chorus was exceedingly strong and proficient, and the stage-setting of "Don Giovanni" capital. The finale of act the first has never been done with more animation and effectiveness. At the matinée today "Il Trovatore" is to be given.

NILSSON MATINEE.

"Martha" will be sung at Wallack's this afternoon, by Misses NILSSON and CARY, and MM. CAPOUL and JAMET.

OPERA IN THE FALL.

Mlle. ILMA DI MURSKA, we learn, has been engaged by Mr. MARETZEK for the Fall and Winter season of opera at the Academy of Music.

SUNDAY CONCERT.

The Sunday concert at the Grand Opera-house, to-morrow, will unite the talent and energy of Miss Kate Morensi, Mme. Fabbri, Mr. James M. Wehli, Mr. Arbuckle, Herr Muller and Mme. Filomeno. The band will, as usual, be that which reflects so much credit upon the Ninth Regiment.

ENTERTAINMENTS FOR CHARITY.

We have been called upon to ask notice for, and record the success of, an unusual number of performances given this season for charitable purposes, and it is always a genuine pleasure to do justice to the noble-hearted ladies and gentlemen of the Metropolis who labor so strenuously in so worthy a cause. Nearly all of the entertainments of this character given at the theatre of the Union League Club, this Winter, have been abundantly prosperous, and some of them have afforded opportunity for the display of amateur histrionic and vocal talent of a high order. A concert with like objects is shortly to be given for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the Masonic Society, which promises to be one of the most brilliant of the season. It is to take place on the night of Thursday, April 11, at the house of Dr. WARD, No. 1 West Forty-seventh-street, that gentleman kindly giving the use of his residence for the occasion. All the performers volunteer, and the list includes the names of Mrs. Yznaga, Mrs. Dillingham, Mrs. Dr. C. A. Hart, Miss Nininger, Mr. S. B. Mills, Mr. George Simpson, Mr. John Clark, Signor Albites, who will conduct, and others. Keating's Band will also perform. Tickets for this remarkable entertainment can be had of either of the fifty lady managers, and we advise those who wish to be present at one of the most attractive and memorable concerts ever heard in New-York to secure them without delay, as the number will be limited and the demand is sure to be very brisk.

SINK THE TRACK.

The Joint Committee's Resolution—Mass-Meeting to be Held on Tuesday.

A meeting of the Joint Committee in charge of the sinking of the Fourth-avenue Railroad track, commencing at Forty-second-street, going north, took place last evening at the bank corner of Third-avenue and Fifty-fifth-street, WHEELER H. PECKHAM, Esq., in the chair. The following resolutions, introduced by Col. BENJAMIN A. WILLIS, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee of the combined associations of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Wards interested in measures now pending to the enactment of a bill compelling the New-York and Harlem Railroad Company to depress their tracks, commencing at Forty-second street, and arch them over, extend to Hon. WM. A. WHITBECK and Hon. Mr. SMYTH their earnest thanks for their manly and energetic action, as members of the Assembly Railroad Committee, in behalf of the bill offered by him, entitled "An act for the preservation of life and security of travel across and alongside the tracks now owned and occupied by the Fourth-avenue Railroad."

Resolved, That the report by said Committee, recommending the adoption of a bill embodying certain improvements desired by the Harlem Railroad Company, and compelling the City to pay one-half the expense, is an unparalleled outrage on the rights of the people, fails to meet in any sense public wants, and is in direct opposition to the expressed wishes of this Committee, and that we denounce the said report as a project to defeat the purpose of the bill presented wholly in obedience to the demands of an unconscionable monopoly.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to Hon. WM. A. WHITBECK.

Among the gentlemen present were Wheeler H. Peckham, Judge Van Vorst, Ex-Senator James W. Beekman, Charles Crary, R. M. Hadden, F. T. Hopkins, Benjamin A. Willis, J. O. Allston, James M. Boyd, William R. Martin, and others.

A mass-meeting will take place at Brevoort Hall, Third-avenue and Fifty-fifth-street, on the 9th inst., when addresses on the subject will be delivered by prominent gentlemen.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Collision in Western Illinois—Loss of One Life, and a Train Wrecked.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Reports were circulated here, at a late hour last night, that a serious accident had occurred early in the evening at Brighton, Ill., the junction of the Chicago and Alton and the Rockford and Rock Island Railroads, resulting in the loss of one life; but no definite information could be ascertained. Subsequently, after the telegraph office had closed, it was learned that a collision had occurred at the point named, about 8 o'clock, between the southern-bound freight-train on the Rockford and Rock Island, and the northern-bound passenger-train on the Chicago and Alton Railroads. The roads at this point run some distance parallel, then cross at very acute angles. The engineers stopped the trains and then started again, each supposing the other to be standing still. As the Rockford engine reached the crossing, the Chicago engine crashed into and upset it, killing the fireman outright. Both engines were badly wrecked, and the baggage-car of the Chicago train was smashed. There were no other casualties than the killing of the fireman. None of the cars were injured.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6—1 A. M.—The barometer is now highest over the South and Middle Atlantic States. It has fallen from the lakes to the Gulf, and is lowest west of the Mississippi Valley. Clear weather has generally continued from the lakes to the Atlantic coast, while cloudy weather and rain is generally prevailing from the Western Gulf to Southern Illinois and westward, with easterly winds.

PROBABILITIES.

Clear and partially clouded but pleasant weather will continue on Saturday from the lower lakes to Florida, and eastward to the Atlantic, with easterly to southerly winds; the barometer will continue falling east of the Rocky Mounteins; the area of rain over the Lower Mississippi Valley will probably extend north-eastward over the Ohio valley, and possibly to Lake Erie; thence northward, increased cloudiness, threatening weather, and possibly rain are probable. Dangerous winds are not anticipated.

The English Squadron at Annapolis—A Dance.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 5.—The Royal Alfred and Eclipse, of the English squadron, sailed this morning, it is said for Bermuda. The Danæ remains for a few days longer. Last night a dance was given in the battery at the Naval Academy in honor of the officers of the squadron. The supper was served at 12; dancing continued until 1. Bunting was displayed in the room. An American and English flag were hanging together in the centre of the battery. The English officers appeared much pleased with the entertainment, and though quite gallant, they were not as graceful dancers as their American cousins. Admiral FANSHAWE, with his lady and daughter, were present. The English and American officers associate cordially together. The former express themselves much pleased with the Naval Academy.

The Brooklyn Republicans—Grand Mass Meeting.

It is expected that the GRANT and COLFAX indorsement meeting, to be held next Wednesday night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, under the auspices of the merchants and private citizens of that place, will be one of the grandest popular demonstrations ever witnessed there. The call for the meeting, had yesterday, received upwards of two thousand signatures, representing all the solid worth of Brooklyn. It is designed to be in every way a popular indorsement of the present Administration, and to that end all Federal officer-holders are rigidly excluded from active participation in its arrangements, nor have any been allowed to sign the call. With the exception of Gov. WOODFORD, the names of the speakers have not yet been given to the public, but the Committee having the subject in charge will announce them without delay.

HOBOKEN FRAUDS.

How Property-Owners There are Being Despoiled.

Wholesale Jobbery and Practical Confiscation of Private Property—Improvements Costing More than the Lots are Worth—Startling Developments.

The citizens of our emulous little Jersey neighbor, Hoboken, are in travail over a deluge of frauds that their municipal Ring has perpetrated on them, being, in fact, a series of jobs that would make TWEED gnash his teeth with envy. By the exposures recently made it would appear that they have a way over there of getting rid of their surplus capital which scarcely commends itself to honest people. The method of these jobs is the same as practiced in this City. Fat contracts, fictitious charges, false estimates, and the avarice and effrontery of the manipulators exist in about the same proportion as manifested by TWEED and his confederates. The Hoboken Ring was, however, often absurd in its pretexts for plunder. One of the latest and most stupendous of these frauds embraces a number of street jobs, hardly as rational in its conception as it would be for the Common Council of Brooklyn to authorize the grading of Coney Island.

After having secured fat contracts all over the inhabited portions of Hoboken, the authorities opened out a new field on the uninhabited meadows environing the north and westerly parts of the city. About three years ago the City Council passed resolutions ordering a number of streets to be graded across these meadows, though there could be no possible demand or use for them, except to enrich certain favorite contractors by their construction, the contractors being, of course, tributary to the Ring. There is not a house in this whole region. The so-called improvements ordered included the grading, filling, curbing, flagging and guttering of Eighth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, running from some indefinite point contiguous to the river westwardly, and abutting against the base of a hill that a goat could hardly climb. There they end, connecting with no road or outlet whatever on the west. But this is not the only significant feature about the matter. The lots in that locality are held by parties, some of whom reside in New-York, who were content to pay the already high rate of taxes, and let them lie until the tendency of the city's growth should perforce turn in that direction, when they would probably put up such improvements as the nature of circumstances would warrant.

But the objection to the streets does not lie so much in the fact that there was not the shadow of a requirement for them, as in the results, which have been, in nearly every instance, sheer confiscation of property that cannot in the least be benefited by these "improvements." In other words, property has been seized to pay for improvements that are utterly useless to the victimized owners.

In the first place, it is asserted that the improvements were not petitioned for by a majority of the property-owners fronting thereon, as required by law. But this was no obstacle in the way of the Ring. There was a mine there, and it must be worked. So they sent Surveyor ALBERT L. DU PUGET to make maps and profiles of the projected streets, showing the amount of filling to be done, and also to make estimates of all the items of construction.

Hoboken has no regularly appointed or elected City Surveyor, who by virtue of his office, assumes the control of the city's work. Any surveyor, and any number of surveyors, who can bring sufficient influence to bear in their behalf, may be appointed by the Council, and when property-owners petition for any improvements they usually designate the surveyor they desire to have do the work, and it is not a little significant that they almost always steer clear of this DU PUGET, while on the other hand the Ring invariably use him, and show a disposition to disregard the preferences of property-owners by thrusting him upon them. The reason of the prevailing objection will be apparent in the exhibits which are appended, and which are only a few specimens for examples.

In regard to the street jobs on the meadows, it appears that DU PUGET made maps and profiles of the streets, and presented estimates of the work to be done. These estimates were to gull the property-owners into at least a silent acquiescence, and certainly exhibited jobs of no great magnitude; and on the strength of these estimates resolutions ordering the improvements to be made were passed in the City Council without opposition. Then the contract was given out, not to the lowest bidder, as will be shown, and this same DU PUGET made a new estimate for the contractor. These assertions are borne out by the record. Eighth and Thirteenth streets are completed, and the assessments made. Twelfth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets are still under contract.

An instance illustrating the character of these original and final estimates will be found quite amusing, except to those who are made to suffer by the imposition. DU PUGET's original estimate of the amount of filling to be done on Thirteenth-street was 12,691 cubic yards. His final estimate for the contractor, made after the improvements were ordered, was 42,528 cubic yards, or more than three times the work specified in the original estimate. His original estimate of the length of open drains on Thirteenth-street was 100 feet. Final estimate, 2,650 feet—more than twenty-six times—the first estimate having induced the acquiescence of those who upon a true statement would have opposed the measure. DU PUGET's original estimate of the cost of the Thirteenth-street improvement, inclusive of everything, was $28,544 35. His final estimate was $89,325 59, or more than three times the first figure. The original estimates were filed with the maps and profiles, in April, 1869; the final estimates were made in 1871 and confirmed in 1872.

The contract for the Thirteenth-street improvement was awarded to COUGHLIN & CALLAHAN, two of the Ring's favorites, whose bid in every item, except one or two insignificant ones, exceeded that of BRADLEY FISHER, their competitor; in one instance being double, and in another ten times the amount. These were the bids:

	Fisher.	C. & C.
Earth filling, per cubic yard	$1 75	$1 85
Curbing, per lineal foot	65	60
Gutters, per lineal foot	21	25
Flagging, per lineal foot	25	24
Box Drains, per lineal foot	2 00	4 00
Open Drains, per lineal foot	20	2 00

FISHER's bid, though the lowest, and made by a perfectly responsible man, was rejected, while COUGHLIN & CALLAHAN, who charged twice as much as their competitor for box drains and ten times as much for open drains, was the one accepted.

Among the items in DU PUGET's final estimate of this job, was $2,800 for surveyor's fee, which is even very moderate when compared with his charges for services in the Eighth-street improvement—the item in that instance being $4,275, and for what? Why for simply driving down a stake here and there along a line less than 25,000 feet in length on Eighth street, and less than 1,300 on Thirteenth-street, to show the laborers where to follow, and giving them the lines and level of the curbs.

The amount of work done by the Surveyor to earn this enormous fee was exceedingly trifling. It was simply a fraud, nothing more nor less, and one that the property-owners complain bitterly about. It was apparently a good thing to be surveyor of the Hoboken Ring.

The Eighth-street job is still a worse joke than that in Thirteenth-street. This contract was given to JOHN McDERMOTT, and here is DU PUGET's estimate, showing also McDERMOTT's charges:

[illegible] feet flagging, at 25c	$3,308 09
[illegible] feet curbing, at 75c	2,731 40
[illegible] feet guttering, at 18c	702 36
[illegible] cubic yards earth filling, at $1 69	126 427 21
360 feet box drains, at $3	1,080 00
3,290 feet open drains, at $1	3,290 00
Total		$137,539 06
Printing	$100 00
Boring	268 00
Commissioner's fees	397 14
Surveyor's fees	4,275 00	5,040 14
Total		$142,579 20

In this estimate it will be seen that the contractor gets for box drains $3 per lineal foot, while COUGHLIN & CALLAHAN get $4 for precisely the same kind of work on Thirteenth-street, while BRADLEY FISHER offered to do it for $2. For open drains the Eighth-street contractor gets $1, while COUGHLIN & CALLAHAN got, on Thirteenth-street, $2, though FISHER's bid was but twenty cents. For earth-filling McDERMOTT's charge is $1 69, against COUGHLIN & CALLAHAN's charge of $1 85. Private contracts for filling, where earth cannot be so easily obtained, range from seventy to ninety cents per cubic yard, so it will be seen that the city pays on an average $1 per cubic yard more than private individuals do for the same kind of work, and there is no reason whatever assigned for the disparity. The private contractor considers that he is getting well paid at ninety cents, so that the Ring contractors are overpaid. Twelfth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets are in precisely the same category, and the same frauds visible.

The next thing the Hoboken Ring did was to assess the expense of these improvements upon the property contiguous thereto. The Commissioners of Assessments are HENRY STEIL, JOHN REID and JOHN GAFFNEY. Their hands appear to be clean of the iniquity; they had nothing whatever to do with creating the expense. They are required only to assess the bill of costs upon the contiguous property, in proportion as each lot is benefitted by the improvement. They were reasonable men, and saw in an instant that the lots upon which the assessment would fall were not benefited at all, and made no bones of saying so plainly to the Council. The public at large had long before that pronounced the whole thing as only an enormous job, and the Commissioners could see no other conclusion. Still, they had no voice in the matter; their duty was to make the assessment—and they did it to the best of their ability. It was evident that the assessment would exceed the value of the lots to be assessed, and they were at a loss how to proceed without committing a gross outrage on the property-owners of these lots. Still, it had to be done—and, in order to leave to those who concocted the scheme the responsibility of directing each measure, they sent a series of interrogatories to the City Council. The interrogatories were referred to the Committee on By-laws and Ordinances, who asked the opinion of Mr. JOHN C. BESSON, the Corporation Attorney, in the matter. Mr. BESSON returned a somewhat indefinite opinion, dodged at the unconstitutionality of the act under which the assessment was to be made, and gave some very good advice about avoiding litigation. But he directed the Commissioners of Assessment to stick to the letter of the city charter, and let the property-owners go to Court about it if they wanted to do so. The opinion fails to answer some very important questions propounded by the Commissioners.

Here are the interrogatories and opinions:

To the Honorable the Council of Hoboken:

GENTLEMEN: The Commissioners of Assessment wish your honorable body to obtain legal decisions for their guidance on the following points, viz.:

In case a street improvement is made which costs more than the benefit conferred, can the amount in excess of the benefit conferred be assessed upon the property?

In case it cannot be so assessed, how, where and upon whom should it be assessed?

In case the required number of property-owners petition for an improvement, does that bind them and the other property-owners along the line of improvements and within the area usually assessed, to pay more than they are really benefited?

Yours, respectfully,
HENRY STEIL,
JOHN REID,
JOHN GAFFNEY, } Commissioners of Assessments.

The following is the Corporation Attorney's reply:

CORPORATION ATTORNEY'S OFFICE,
HOBOKEN, Nov. 4, 1871.

To the Committee on By-laws and Ordinances:

GENTLEMEN: In answer to your communication of Oct. 30, requesting my opinion in regard to the questions presented by the Commissioners of Assessments, I beg leave to remark that by the fifty-second section of the city charter it is expressively provided "that all expense for improvements in opening, grading, guttering, curbing, bridging and paving streets, &c., shall be assessed upon and paid by the lands and real estate benefited by the same in proportion to the benefit received." Of course it is not to be presumed that the Legislature, in passing this act, ever contemplated the anomaly of making an improvement which should cost more than the benefit to be derived from it would be worth; but if such a case has, or ever should occur under our charter, according to the letter of the law the whole cost must be assessed upon the lands benefited in proportion to the benefit received. The rule is evidently so repugnant to the principles of justice, that it may be very seriously questioned whether the act in terms imposing such a burden is not unconstitutional. I am strongly inclined to believe the Courts will so declare it. By adopting the other and more equitable rule that you can only assess a lot to the extent of the benefit actually received from the improvement, in case the improvement has cost more than it is actually worth, we meet with another difficulty in disposing of the difference between the real value and the cost of the improvement. In the absence of fraud on the part of the contractor it remains a valid claim against the city, with no lawful means for providing funds to meet it. The only way it can ever possibly be paid is by general taxation, which casts a burden on the tax-payer, which is equally as unjust as the exorbitant assessment against the land-owner, whose lands have, to some extent, been benefited by the so-called improvement.

The question presented has never to my knowledge been directly decided by our Courts: therefore I consider it the better course for the Commissioners of Assessments to adhere to the literal direction of the city charter.

If any one should consider himself aggrieved by their action in this respect, the Courts are always open to administer such relief as the law and justice of the case will warrant. To avoid litigation as much as possible is a wise and safe rule for corporations as well as individuals to adopt, but when there is no escape from it, no matter which way you go, it is generally best to follow the express direction of the written law. Very respectfully, &c.,

JOHN C. BESSON,
Corporation Attorney.

The assessments were accordingly made. In some of the blocks the lots all fronted on the streets running transversely with the improvement, and in these cases the lots were assessed for half a block on either side of the improved street. It was all the Commissioners could do, yet it amounts simply to a confiscation of the property, for the amount assessed upon each lot exceeds in most cases the present value of the lot itself, and in very many instances is double what the property would sell for at forced sale. Some of the owners have, therefore, announced their determination to abandon their lots rather than assume the perplexities, expenses and doubtful risks of a protracted litigation. Even if the city should be beaten in Court, the result is just about the same, for the payment, as the Corporation Attorney says, must be provided for by taxation, and the burden simply refers back to the taxpayers generally, so that instead of each lot-owner bearing his own burden it is distributed among them all, and he in turn is saddled with a proportion of all the other expensive jobs concocted by the Ring. The owners on Thirteenth-street have, however, determined to try the virtue of legislation. They have peremptorily refused to pay the enormous bill, and certioraris lie along the line of the street like beads on a string.

It is only necessary to take one instance of wholesale confiscation on Eighth-street to show its effect. Mr. H. L. POWERS, proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel, in this City, owns one-half of Block No. 88, fronting on Madison-street, and extending from Eighth-street to Ninth. This is divided into sixteen lots, 100 feet deep by 25 feet front, all fronting on Madison-street. He is assessed for the improvement of one-half the width of Eighth-street extending along the line of his corner lot 100 feet, and for one-fourth of the intersection of Eighth and Madison streets. Eighth-street is 65 feet wide. His share of the bill amounts to $4,552 37, which is assessed upon eight of his lots, leaving the other eight to be gobbled up when Ninth-street comes to be improved in like manner. The assessments on the inside seven of these eight lots, range from $358 19 in regular gradation, up to $538 18, being an average of about $448 50, while the corner lot is assessed for $1,413, on the assumption that it being a corner lot is worth more, and being directly on the line of the improvement, is benefited by it to the extent of $83 26.

Mr. POWERS recently told the Ring, "Gentlemen, take the lots. I will not pay the assessment. I would have been glad to have sold them at one-half your assessment." This is only a single instance of many others that occur, the owners of the property living in this City, in Hoboken, and elsewhere. Here are the names of the City Council; those in italics are the Ring members:

First Ward—William H. Havens, Alexander Feyh, James Curran.

Second Ward—Charles K. Williams, John Curtiu, Fred. W. Dietring.

Third Ward—Herman L. Tinken, Peter McGavisk, (Chairman,) James A. Geayer.

Those not in the Ring are good men, but they constitute a minority in the Council, so the jobs were passed over their heads. Experienced men and good judges declare that DU PUGET's final estimates of the work done on Eighth and Thirteenth streets exceed the actual amount 100 per cent. Ferry-street presents another instance of the honesty of this man. After he had made a final estimate of the amount of work done on a certain improvement on this street, the property owners objected on the ground that there was not as much work done as DU PUGET had represented. They proposed to the City Council to have another surveyor go over the work, and make an estimate, offering to pay the expense of this surveyor themselves. It was done, and the new surveyor found that there had been $10,000 worth of work charged for that had never been done, yet DU PUGET had certified to it as having been accomplished, the whole amount approximating $30,000. Then DU PUGET went over the same work with the other surveyor, and, allowing every item that could possibly be allowed, there was still in DU PUGET's first estimate an excess of over $6,000; notwithstanding this the Council confirmed DU PUGET's first estimate. DU PUGET subsequently attempted a coup that would have given him the whole field, and made him boss of the Ring, by securing his appointment as Supervising Surveyor of the City, but the property-owners rose up resolutely and protested against it. They said he was not the man for the place and had not the confidence of the people. So his movement failed, and he remains plain Surveyor DU PUGET, though still the agent of the Ring.

A few jobs such as have been described will make a pretty clean sweep of all the vacant property around Hoboken, and drive away everybody who does not want to be completely robbed. Those who have been so unfortunate as to invest their money in these Hoboken lands have learned a little unpleasant experience. A reform movement is manifestly necessary in Hoboken, and the sooner the people set about it the better it will be for the prosperity of the city.

Grant and ——?

Baltimore American.

That Gen. GRANT will be the standard-bearer in the coming conflict is accepted as a fixed fact, and we are not without hope that the ides of November will witness a united Republicanism. Messrs. SUMNER, GREELEY, TRUMBULL and SCHURZ must see that the masses of the people, the rank and file of the great party of LINCOLN and liberty, are against them; they will hardly demand the majority to yield to the smallest of minorities, the multitude to succumb to the mandate of a respectable but very small, select company. This conceded, who shall stand beside him? Whose name shall be second? If SCHUYLER COLFAX had not withdrawn his name at one time there would be no question. But he was influenced by two considerations: First, a sincere desire to retire from public care and political anxiety to the tranquility of private life; and secondly, hailing from the adjoining State to that of the President, he desired to open the second place to some other part of our great nation. But his announcement of retiracy was met by a national negative. Leading journals and influential Republicans insisted that he had no right to take himself out of the hands of the party. Under this loud, commanding, almost compelling expression, Mr. COLFAX so far modified his former expression as to leave himself at the order of his party, not seeking the Vice-Presidency, nor yet holding himself at liberty to refuse. In this action he did what was simply duty.

We are free to express our views, and as heretofore, we favor the ticket of 1868—GRANT and COLFAX. The sectional question, in our judgment, ought to have no weight, but if we must have it it will be equally forcible against the distinguished gentlemen proposed from Iowa, Kentucky and Ohio.

Against the personal character of Mr. COLFAX no man can breathe a word. At home, in the Western town where he spent his youth and early manhood, no man can lay aught that is dishonorable to his charge, and his political opponents speak of him personally in terms little short of enthusiastic. No better presiding officer lives in Europe or America, and his parliamentary decisions are accepted as authority. President and Vice-President. The party has not been periled by divisions between its chiefs. This is a point of great moment, as those familiar with the inner life of Washington well know.

Mr. COLFAX is the friend of all sections of the country. His popularity is more nearly national than that of any man who can be nominated. It is also conceded that should any calamity remove the Chief Magistrate, Mr. COLFAX has every qualification for performing the duties of that high office. The nation would sorrow for its great loss, but would have a sense of safety nevertheless, for both his statesmanship and integrity have been fully proved.

It is due to the party to state a fact within our knowledge. The strongest persuasions and arguments have been employed to induce Mr. COLFAX to consent that his name should go before the Philadelphia Convention for nomination to the Presidency. He has firmly refused. He has said, "Gen. GRANT merits the confidence of the nation; I will not oppose him." He has done by this means much to maintain the unity of the party, and we doubt if any other name can give it such prestige.

When the Indiana Republicans, in different parts of that great State, proposed to nominate Mr. COLFAX for President, and when not a few leading men thought they saw in the movement the end of the troubles which had periled Republican harmony, it was a strong temptation to any man; but the Vice-President would not risk the unity of the party or desert its standard-bearer.

Mr. COLFAX has been the steadfast friend of the colored people, and his recent casting vote in the Senate for Mr. SUMNER's Civil Rights bill will not be forgotten by the 800,000 voters directly interested.

Of course, if Mr. COLFAX is not nominated no one will be taken from the West, and we doubt if any Eastern man yet presented has the magnetism of the Indiana statesman.

Ohio asks for DENNISON, Iowa for WILSON, the trans-Mississippi orator. But Maine and Rhode Island on the Atlantic, Oregon from the Pacific, Indiana from the centre, have spoken for COLFAX. The national capital answers. He is the favorite of Maryland beyond question, and as the time draws near State after State will close up the column and catch up the ringing shout of 1868.

GRANT and COLFAX will stir the enthusiasm of 1872. It will call up the old club organizations; the old transparencies will be brought from their hiding places, the old banners will wave, the old shouts will ring.

There is unity in the shout; there is the reminiscence of success. Nor let it be forgotten these are lucky men, as the word goes, and the people have confidence in their habit of success.

We shall accept the choice of the Convention, but while different States will give their favorite sons complimentary votes, we believe that, as in 1868, so in 1872, that done, the choice of the great Convention will be COLFAX, and that under the same names the path will be straight to the same result. So we finish our caption and place it complete at the end of the article—GRANT and COLFAX.

The Eight-Hour Question—Meeting at the Mechanics' and Builders' Exchange.

A meeting of all those interested in the building trades was called for yesterday at the Mechanics' and Builders' Exchange, to consider the important and comprehensive questions of hours of labor, wages, apprentices, strikes, and any other matters which might come before them affecting the building interests during the present season. The call grew out of a resolution adopted at a meeting of master masons, held March 22, calling for a general consultation of the building trades on the eight-hour question more especially. About one hundred assembled in response, yesterday, and after some delay the meeting was called to order by Mr. JOHN T. CONOVER, Mr. MARC EIDLITZ acting as Secretary. To bring the eight-hour question before the meeting, Mr. ROBERT DARRAGH introduced a resolution passed at the meeting of masons in March, to the effect that as Congress and the Legislature of this State have passed laws making eight hours a legal day's work, the builders accept the fact, and after the 1st of May next work their employes for eight hours only.

Mr. PETER TOSTEVANT moved, as an amendment, that all allusion to the Legislature and General Government be omitted, which was accordingly done, and Mr. DARRAGH made a speech in favor of eight hours, saying that builders and contractors want to know how the question is to be decided, so as to determine on what to base their contracts.

Mr. TOSTEVANT was afraid that ten-hour working men from Connecticut and New-Jersey will be brought here by contractors, able to underbid our builders, who will have to raise their prices under the eight-hour system.

Many speeches were made, and it was finally decided to adjourn until next Friday at 2 o'clock.

The Whisky Frauds.

Only two parties connected with the frauds of the "Whisky Ring," and against whom indictments were found by the Grand Jury, presented themselves before United States Commissioner SHIELDS yesterday, and gave bail for their appearance on trial. Their names are EPHRAIM MILLER—sureties, JOHN LOORAN, No. 443 East Eighteenth-street, and SILAS F. SHERWOOD, of No. 329 East Twentieth street—and NORRIS LOGEL—sureties, JAMES E. KELLY, of No. 8 Barclay-street, and JOSEPH CORNELL, of No. 75 Rivington-street. In the case of THOMAS E. SMITH, Ex-Collector of the Eighth District, one of the indictments charged that while holding that position he received a bribe of $10,000 on the 20th of April, 1867. Mr. SMITH was not appointed until fifteen days subsequently, and a further period of ten days elapsed before he assumed the duties of his office. The other four indictments on which he is held are not open to the same objection.

FRIDAY, April 5—P. M.

The Stock Exchange and the officers of the Associated City Banks were excited this morning by the discovery that the Tenth National Bank, a concern notorious for its connection with the Tammany and Erie infamies, and still in the ownership and employment of the Wall-street rump of the Erie Ring, came out a creditor in the Bank Exchanges at the Clearing-house for nearly five million of dollars, and that an attempt had been made to conceal the fact at the Clearing-house. The last part of the story was subsequently qualified by the assurance that the officials of the Clearing-house reported the state of the balances as early as they could be verified. The disgraceful use made of the Tenth National, to lock up five millions of dollars from the regular employment of business and to the annoyance of fifty odd other banks in the Clearing-house, was, of course, known in advance by its nominal managers, the willing tools of their Wall-street masters, and the confident opinion today is that the National Bank authorities at Washington will take prompt measures to prevent a repetition of the outrage, if not to close up the concern altogether as a scandal to the whole National system. If this had been done immediately after Black Friday, in 1869, the scandal would have been less, followed as this blunder at Washington was by the part played by the Bank in 1870-71, as one of the dirty conduits of the Tammany frauds. This sort of toleration, it is to be hoped, is now at an end, and we believe that the owners of the concern will soon discover that they have other and very different men to deal with than HULBURD, Controller, and COLLENDER, Bank Examiner.

The lock-up of Money, as above developed, contributed to the stringency among the Brokers today, but failed in its main purpose of putting down the Stock market. It simply enabled the Money lenders of prominence, through their Brokers, at a late hour in the day, to turn their eighths and sixteenths for the day as against needy borrowers. The lesson of such Street scenes, if improved at Albany, should be the passage of the bill of Mr. ALVORD to repeal the Usury Laws, so that all Banks and Bankers alike may sell their Money openly at their own counters for what it may be worth, in place of leaving the business to the indirection and trickery of Street shaving resorted to by the least scrupulous of their number.

The price of Gold was a fraction firmer than at the close of business on Thursday. The sales were at 110¼@110¼@110⅜@110¼ ₩ cent. The million of dollars sold by the Treasury, yesterday, we should have mentioned in our last report, was taken at 110.20 ₩ cent. There is a partial feeling prevalent that the rise of Interest at the Bank of England should make Gold a little firmer here, but this opinion is not responsive to the course of Exchange since the announcement of the increased Bank rate, yesterday morning. Bills on London have been sold for ready cash, today, at 109@109¼ ₩ cent., although the so-called standard quotation is called ⅛@¼ ₩ cent. higher. It may be that the immediate Wall-street value of Money affects the demand for Exchange.

In the Public Funds there is nothing more than a steady demand on a comparatively moderate supply of Stock. In State Stocks and Railway Bonds the business is also light. The whole interest on the Stock Exchange is directed, as for several weeks past, to speculating in the Railroad and a few of the Miscellaneous Shares, and the amount of business, in the face of a much weaker Bank movement than this time last Spring, and at the cost of dear rates for money on the Street, may be called enormous. The regular calls of the Stock list were dispensed with today, at the Exchange, in deference to the funeral of Prof. MORSE, yet the list of sales in the Hall of the Exchange, it will be noticed, is quite as large as usual in the present excitement. The persistent and well-laid schemes of certain bearish operators to break the market, by locking up not only their own money but all they could borrow or manipulate through other parties, failed to depress prices through the forenoon, and the consequence was that after the worst of the Money pressure of the day had been gone through with the demand for the New-York and Western Roads and for Western Telegraph increased and prices improved. At the close of the day the following prices were made as compared with Thursday Afternoon. The speculation is, of course, very feverish, owing to the conflicting views of the outside speculators and of their Brokers as to the continuance and effect of dear Money, and as to the skill and endurance of the Bull interest in carrying up the market against such apparently fearful odds. With this interest, however, the advantage seemed to rest this Afternoon:

INVESTMENTS.

To those who have funds to invest, and to those who wish to increase their income from funds already invested in other securities, we recommend Northern Pacific Seven-thirties. Bearing Seven and Three-tenths (7 3-10) gold interest, and secured by a First Mortgage on both the Road and a Land Grant of great extent and value, they combine unusual Profitableness with unquestionable Security.

The proceeds of all sales of Land are required to be devoted by the Trustees of the bondholders as a Sinking Fund to the purchase and cancellation of the first mortgage bonds, or temporarily to the payment of interest thereon, if necessary. This provision will make the Railroad Company itself a constant and heavy purchaser of its own securities in the open market from the time the road is completed until the bonds mature, or are all bought in. The effect of this will naturally be a steady rise in the value of the bonds.

The Northern Pacific Railroad Company will, during the present month of April, offer for sale and settlement about Two Million Acres of its Lands in Minnesota, and many thousand acres are already taken and applied for. Thus the immense landed estate of the Company begins at once to be available.

All marketable stocks and bonds will be received (by express or otherwise) at current prices in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-thirties without expense to the investor. Pamphlets and full information will be furnished on application.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURG, FORT WAYNE AND CHICAGO RAILWAY CO.,
March 1, 1872.

☞ THE "SPECIAL GUARANTEED STOCK" of the above-named Railway Company, to be issued to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for improvement and equipment purposes, is in pursuance of the sixteenth section of the lease by said Company to the Pennsylvania Company, dated the 7th day of June, 1869, which, among other things, provides that for the purpose of enabling the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to meet their obligations given for permanent improvements to be made on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, from time to time, a special stock shall be issued to them at par, which shall bear such name and such rate of interest or dividend as may be agreed on, and upon the following conditions, viz.:

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company shall guarantee the payment, semi-annually or quarterly, thereon, such rate of dividend or interest as may be agreed on to be paid by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, to the holders thereof, without deduction from the rent therein before named, of $1,380,000 per year, to the holders, (being seven per cent.) on the present share capital, and shall be issued only in respect to permanent improvements of and additions to the road, which and the specification of which shall first have been submitted to and approved by the Board of Directors of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, in writing, and all such improvements and additions shall be made in such way and manner as may be approved by the said Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Companies' Board of Directors, thus giving the latter Company control over the amount of shares to be issued.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company guarantees to each holder of this stock to pay dividends on same at rate of seven per cent. per annum, payable quarterly, free of all taxes, and this stock is issued without detriment or prejudice to the general or prior stock, all of which will appear on each share certificate.

The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, the past year, earned about $1,250,000 net, over and above all expenses, interest, sinking fund, and rental aforesaid, being clear net profit to the lessees.

The annual receipts are increasing rapidly, and have increased each year for the past twelve years.

The entire line from Philadelphia to Chicago, being operated together, and as one interest, greatly reduces the annual cost thereof.

The issue of new shares represents only the money advanced by the Pennsylvania Company for permanent and valuable improvements, additions and equipments, thereby adding to the capacity of the Railway for greatly increased income.

By the operations of the sinking fund alone, the present mortgage debt will, by the 1st of July, 1895, be paid off, leaving the road, now worth more than $50,000,000 to the shareholders, free of debt. The amount of money in the hands of the trustees, and bonds taken up by them to this date, is over $1,000,000.

It is difficult to conceive a more secure and desirable investment than these shares.

The holders will have:

First—The net income of the road, which will prove most ample of itself.

Second—The direct guarantee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, with a paid-up capital of $50,000,000, one of the richest and most productive railways on the continent, managed with ability and fidelity.

Third—The shares are in perpetuity, paying seven per cent. per annum quarterly, free of taxes.

Fourth—The loss of a share certificate involves no pecuniary loss, (as in the case of a coupon bond, payable to bearer,) as duplicates can always be had in such case.

G. W. CASS, President,
Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company.

We fully concur in the foregoing statements of G. W. Cass, Esq., President, in regard to the special guaranteed stock of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, issued for improvements, and take pleasure in recommending it to investors as a very desirable security. WINSLOW, LANIER & CO.

Lecture on Siam.

To-night a lecture will be delivered in the great hall of the Cooper Union by Mrs. LEONOWENS, on "Siam, its Court and Customs." The lecturer is the anthoress of the popular book on Siam published a few months ago, and was formerly governess to the King of Siam. Her narrative to-night cannot fail to be one of unusual interest. The lecture is part of a "free course," and the hall will doubtless be well filled.

Liberation of Special Sessions Criminals.

HUBER, the pioneer of the to-be liberated criminals, decided by the Court of Appeals to have been unlawfully convicted before a single Judge in the Court of Special Sessions, was yesterday discharged on his own recognizance by Judge BRADY. It will be remembered that HUBER was convicted of petit larceny before Judge DOWLING and sentenced to six months in the Penitentiary. From this an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, General Term, on the ground that the Court, as held by a single Judge, was improperly constituted. Here the Court was held to be properly constituted, Judge INGRAHAM dissenting; and from that decision counsel for the prisoner appealed to the Court of Appeals, where the judgment of the General Term was revoked and the conviction held to be illegal. Other cases of a similar character, in which writs had also been issued, were laid over until a future day.

THE SIEGFRIED CASE.

Examination of Frederick Heggi, Accused of Poisoning—Important Testimony Before the Coroner.

Coroner YOUNG, yesterday, began the inquest in the case of FREDERICK JOSEPH SIEGFRIED, who, it is alleged, was in August, 1869, poisoned by FREDERICK HEGGI, a machinist, living at No. 263 East Houston-street. Both sides were represented by counsel.

The first witness called was:

FREDERICK SIEGFRIED, son of deceased. He testified that he first heard of his father's illness three years ago; HEGGI took deceased from Ridge-street to Newark; he and his wife went to see him; saw his father the morning he died, and he could not speak; on the Friday before his death witness' wife was told by deceased that HEGGI had given him poison; HEGGI and his wife just then pulled her out of the room, and would not allow her to hear any more; when deceased was about being taken back from Newark HEGGI pulled witness' wife out of the carriage and would not allow her to ride back; witness did not know that his father was dead until the day of the funeral; got to the house an hour or two before and asked HEGGI where deceased was to be buried; Mrs. SIEGFRIED, the wife of deceased, wished to bury him, but HEGGI refused to allow him to leave his hands; heard from a man named Dr. EMIL RYSS that there had been two wills; the will brought to the Surrogate's office by HEGGI was in English, and the deceased knew nothing of its contents; the other, written in German, had been destroyed; HEGGI took possession of $11,000 or $12,000 left by the deceased, and only gave witness $300 at one time and $15 at another; saw HEGGI give deceased a brownish fluid from a cup, and afterward a whitish fluid resembling milk; at the grave asked HEGGI for a certificate, so that he might put up a tomb-stone, and he replied that he would attend to it himself; deceased drank a great deal; about six months after the death of deceased, witness went to Coroner SCHIRMER with affidavits, and was told the process of exhumation and analysis would be a very expensive process for a poor man, and that nothing more than bones would probably be found after so long an interval.

Dr. AUGUSTUS KREHBIEL, of No. 207 East Tenth-street, testified that he had prescribed for the deceased; had seen him but twice, and administered Calysaya bark and dilute muriatic acid; never prescribed anything containing arsenic; saw nothing in deceased to lead him to believe that he had been poisoned; after his death gave a certificate that it had been produced by gastritis and marasmus.

ROSANNA SIEGFRIED, daughter-in-law of deceased, said that she saw the deceased when sick at No. 16 West-street; he was anxious to go to the house of witness; HEGGI told her that deceased had just made a will, and took good care of her and her little girl; a carriage was procured at the request of deceased, and though it was understood that he was to accompany her to her house, HEGGI compelled her to leave the vehicle; the deceased asked her to stay with him, but HEGGI pulled her out; on getting to New-York, went to HEGGI's house, No. 263 East Houston-street, and found that her father-in law had already arrived and was lying on a lounge; asked if he was not going to accompany her, and was told that it was then too late, but that he would go next day; visited him next day, and Mrs. HEGGI said that it was better not to move him, as the medicine he had taken would not then do him any good; the following day the deceased was lying in bed; he had his mouth open, and his teeth were black; he told witness that HEGGI had poisoned him; and just then HEGGI pushed her out of the room; when she returned HEGGI was giving deceased some medicine in a cup and afterward some milk; deceased told her, while in Newark, that he did not want to make a will but they had forced him to.

SOPHIE ECKHART, of No. 16 West street, Newark, N. J., testified that deceased was in her house in August, 1869, for three weeks; came to her house alone; HEGGI used to come and see him; heard deceased say he intended to leave the property to one of the little children.

CHARLOTTE SIEGFRIED, the widow of deceased, said he left her in March, 1869, six months before his death; did not see him again until the day of his death; was told that he was very sick and wanted to see her; went to HEGGI's house, No. 263 East Houston-street the morning he died and saw him; he did not recognize her; never heard that HEGGI had poisoned him until she heard so in the Coroner's office; have known HEGGI for nineteen years; she had domestic trouble with her husband; wanted her husband buried in Carmansville where her child was, but Mr. HEGGI said that the burial would have to be in the Lutheran Cemetry; she never received any of her husband's property.

CAROLINE SCHUBERT, of No. 130 Essex-street, swore that she lived with SIEGFRIED as his housekeeper, under his assurance that when divorced from his wife he would marry her; this was in Ridge-street; was acquainted with HEGGI, who came to see SIEGFRIED; three weeks before his death he was taken away by HEGGI, who would not say whither, and she did not see him again; HEGGI told her that she must leave the house inside of an hour, and she threatened proceedings for damages; HEGGI gave her the lager-beer saloon, without the furniture, which he took away, in settlement of her claim against SIEGFRIED.

The further examination was adjourned until Monday.

A Wild Erie Rumor.

Wall-street was astounded yesterday afternoon by a most monstrous canard to the effect that the Erie directors had attached a large sum of money belonging to JAY GOULD, which was passing through the Clearing-house into the hands of the Tenth National Bank. This sum was started at $4,600,000, and its extraordinary amount was explained to the doubtful as the result of a conspiracy between JAY GOULD and Mr. SMITH to lock up money. Gen. DIVEN had heard of it, and had promptly acted—attaching the entire sum on account of sums due by Mr. GOULD to the Erie Railway. The reporter when he heard the rumor rushed to the indicator, ticking away busily. Erie was 63, and had been so since the opening of the Stock Exchange. Evidently the rumor had not created even a flutter in that most susceptible atmosphere. From the indicator he hastened to Col. STEBBINS, of the Department of Parks. That gentleman had not heard a word about it, and dismissed it at once as an idle report which some bear was attempting to circulate. From the Department of Parks to the Tenth National Bank was but a few steps. There the reporter ran right against Mr. JAY GOULD. The Ex-President of Erie smiled in a melancholy sort of way, and said: "There are two reasons why this story could not be true. I owe Erie nothing, and I do not possess four millions, nor half that." "Well, but," said the reporter, "you own six millions worth of shares." "They are not money," retorted JAY GOULD. "You might have made them so," rejoined the reporter, "if you had helped a few of these Englishmen to the shares they are so crazy for. Perhaps you are waiting to assist DANIEL DREW to his 50,000 shares when they are called for?" "Perhaps so," said Mr. GOULD. "But here is Mr. PALMER, the Secretary of the bank. You can ask him about this rumor, which I can assure you is false as regards myself." The official was at first rather angry, seeming to dislike the connection of the bank with any rumors; but finally he pleasantly replied: "The Erie transact their business with us as heretofore. Today those transactions amounted to $46,000. That's all I know about the matter. There has been no attachment, you may rely upon it." Probably the story was started by some one who wants to bear Erie.

Rumors on Wall-Street Yesterday.

Many extraordinary and improbable rumors were afloat in Wall-street, yesterday, evidently originated for the purpose of affecting the price of gold and stocks, but they failed in almost every instance, as the market remained dull and rather firm all day. In the afternoon, it was reported that the Tenth National Bank, which was credited with $4,770,000 yesterday, had been thrown out of the Clearing-house. This turned out to be entirely untrue. Another story, probably a fabrication also, intended to "bull" New-York Central, as it could not be authenticated, was to the effect that a well-known banking-house had proposed to Commodore VANDERBILT to take 100,000 shares of New-York Central stock at par.

Base-Ball Notes.

With fair weather, today will be signalized by an opening of the base-ball season in a majority of the cities in which professional clubs are located. On the Capitoline, Brooklyn, the Atlantics play the Concord nine; at Philadelphia the Athletics will hoist their whip pennant for a match against a "field," while the Baltimore nine will have a practice game at the Madison-street grounds. On Monday the Atlantics and Burnsides play on the Capitoline, and during next week practice games will be in order with all the professional nines. The Mutuals propose getting out for a few hours ball-tossing on Monday afternoon, they having hitherto been delayed by the unfitness of their ground.

The Bostons tour promises, after all, to amount to very little in the way of championship games, the Atlantics, Eckfords and Mutuals having decided not to play them on this trip. The Haymakers have come to a similar conclusion, and Baltimore is the only place where they will be likely to get a game.

It is probable that PINKHAM and BASS will play in the Eckford nine as pitcher and short-stop, respectively.

No regular matches with professional clubs have as yet been arranged by either the Mutuals, Eckfords or Atlantics, and it is unlikely that the struggle for the championship will begin before the last week of April.

The Mutuals' first championship match this season will be with the Baltimore Club, the game taking place the first week in May.

Only $15,000 worth of Troy stock has been taken up, the Haymakers' capital being thus reduced by half the proposed amount.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.—APRIL 5.

Before Judge Barrett and a Jury.

RIGHTING THE WRONGS OF THE SOUTHERN REBELLION.

Lester vs. The Union Manufacturing Company.—In this case, which grew out of a litigation over an interest in a sewing-machine factory in the City of Richmond, the facts of which have already appeared in the TIMES, the jury have rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $48,000 and interest, amounting in all to $75,916. In this verdict the jury have given defendant credit for $2,000, being the then value of $50,000 in Confederate currency, which it was claimed plaintiff had been compelled to accept under threats and duress.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 159.—Carpenter vs. Montgomery et al.—Error to the Circuit Court for California.—This is an action of ejectment brought by the plaintiff in error to assert the title of Mina Leodora Peralta against the defendants, claiming under her brothers, to an undivided interest in the Rancho San Antonio, of which their father, as alleged, had seized and had held under a grant from the Spanish Government for thirty years prior to his death. The only question presented is whether the father, Louis Peralta, had such an interest in the land, by virtue of the grant, and his long possession under it, as would enable one of his heirs to maintain an action of ejectment against others of his heirs who had ousted her, by procuring a confirmation of the father's title under the act of March 3, 1871. On the trial the Court held that the title of the father was incomplete; and further, that, in any case, the title of the defendants, claiming under the sons could not be called in question by ejectment brought on such a title. The objection to the title was, that there was no proof that the legal title to the lands had passed from the United States by patent. To that it is here answered that the lands never were the property of the United States, and the title of the father is older than any the United States can set up, and is entitled to recognition and protection by every department of the Government. Upon the point of maintaining the action, it is insisted that conformation, only procured by the sons, without survey and patent, constitutes no defense to ejectment brought under the title relied upon.

Blair & Dick for appellants; Houghton, Reynolds & Irving for appellees.

The Court of Special Sessions Reorganized.

The Board of Police Justices met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reorganizing the Court of Special Sessions under a former act, which action was rendered necessary by the recent decision of the Court of Appeals. The Board re-elected Justice DOWLING President for the ensuing year, and assigned Justices DOWLING, HOGAN and SHANDLEY to hold the Court today. The appointment of clerks and attachés of the Court was discussed at the meeting, but no definite action taken. We understand that the Police Justices threaten to remove the only two Republicans who are attached to the Court, they being the clerk and the stenographer. This action on their part seems uncalled for, as the State Legislature may soon declare their own seats vacant.

The question whether all the criminals convicted at the Special Sessions under the latest act, are to be immediately released from the Penitentiary is already exercising the minds of all honest people, who are afraid that the tide of lawless crime will be suddenly increased by such a wholesale jail delivery. It appears, however, this alarm is groundless, for if the District-Attorney chooses to do his duty, and he no doubt will, he can prevent the release of the thieves and cut-throats now in the Penitentiary by compelling their counsel to take their cases to the Court of Appeals, so that before all of the appeals can be acted upon the majority of the sentences will have been served out.

The Washington Market Ejectment.

The further hearing of the ejectment of Mr. HANFORD from stand No. 410 Washington Market took place, yesterday, at the Controller's office. Mr. HANFORD stated that he had no more witnesses to testify, and was contented to leave the case in the Controller's hands for his decision. Messrs. VANZANT & BRENNAN stated that they were not aware at the time they bought the stand that it had been taken from Mr. HANFORD without cause, and now they wished to know who should repay the purchase money, $3,000, to them if the Controller withdrew their permit. Controller GREEN said he would consider the case and let them know his decision in a few days.

Fair for St. Luke's Home.

A fair for the benefit of "St. Luke's Home for Aged and Indigent Females" will be held at Apollo Hall, beginning on April 9. The several Protestant Episcopal churches are each represented by two or more ladies, who have striven to make their tables attractive. The object is to procure funds to complete a building as a permanent home for these poor women. Among the many attractive features of the fair will be tableaux at Dr. WARD'S, on April 9, (evening,) in which some of the distinguished young débutantes of the past Winter will assist, under the artistic direction of Mr. SATTERLEE. Amateur entertainments will be given every evening, directed by Mr. EDWARD CURTIS, who has often raised a laugh in a good cause himself by his clever representations. Music, flower-table, and a photographer will combine to render the fair an agreeable lounging place.

Old and respectable women of good antecedents are received at this excellent Home, and if there is ever an excuse for the indulgence of that charity, which, while giving, does not object to be assessed, it is now, and in this way: The ladies connected with this Fair are permanently Mrs. Francis Pott, Mrs. S. B. Ruggles, Mrs. Henry A. Smythe, Miss Ellen Kemble, Mrs C. P. Burdett, Mrs. Uhlborn, and many others whose names are a sufficient guarantee of its eminent usefulness and responsibility. Too much praise can hardly be awarded to Miss CAROLINE TALMAN who has erected a church at her own expense, and presented it to the St. Luke's Home, and made a condition that the use of church pews nearest the Home shall ever be for the free use of the inmates thereof. The corner-stone of the new Home was laid last year on the corner of Madison-avenue and Eighty-ninth-street, and now that the building is completed, this Fair, it is hoped, will pay off its debt, add to its "furnishing and finishing," and worthily supplement the charity and benevolence of Miss TALMAN.

Meeting of Iron-Founders—Necessity of Co-Operation Advocated.

A meeting of iron-founders, representing forty-eight firms of New-York and neighboring cities, met at Teutonia Assembly rooms yesterday, Mr. PETER H. JACKSON presiding. The report of the Committee on Machinery and General Jobbing Castings was received, and the scale of prices fixed by them adopted.

Considerable discussion took place over a resolution to make a permanent organization. Mr. CAMPBELL said that iron founders do not at present receive sufficient remuneration for the amount of capital employed and the labor attending the business. Co-operation, with a good understanding between those combining, and sincerity in carrying it out, would work for the profit of all. Iron-founders had made but little money lately, and he believed that all present had had enough of fighting with each other; their interests were to work together.

A committee on organization was appointed, and reported that inasmuch as there is already in existence a Board of Iron-founders, and in the opinion of this Committee there is no necessity of another organization, therefore, it is recommended that the members present enroll themselves with that Board. The report of the Committee was accepted, and its recommendation adopted. It was afterward resolved that the Secretary prepare a roll to be signed by all present who desired to become members of the existing Board of Trade.

Mr. CAMPBELL reviewed some of the disadvantages under which the iron manufacturing interest labored. Protection, he said, was needed against iron dealers and against themselves. Men in the iron-founding trade were too ready to do work at prices below their neighbors, and at ruinous sacrifices to themselves, for the sake of securing a job. Such methods of doing business he characterized as partaking of meanness, and made men who wished to be just to themselves, almost disgusted with the greatest trade of the age. He hoped that the iron founders of New-York would form a community of interests, agree not to sell their work below cost, and every individual would be benefited.

Mr. BELL, to show the benefits resulting from a Board of Trade, stated that several years ago iron had been raised from a much lower price to $54 per ton. A combination of thirteen in the present Board of Trade, by the skillful employment of about $6,000, imported iron directly from England, and sold it for $39 to the founders. The prices of the iron-dealers became so reasonable after a while that there was no further necessity for the Board of Trade to import any more iron.

Nearly all present signed their names for proposal in the Board of Trade. The meeting then adjourned.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the Times will be received at No. 54 West 32d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 23d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,241 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The New-York Times has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 44 Court-st opposite the City Hall, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. The letters and dispatches we received from New-Hampshire and Connecticut afford examples of the thorough and impartial manner in which our correspondents will perform their work. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

As a further example of the thoroughness with which this is being done, we refer to our returns from the Connecticut election, which were earlier, more complete, and more accurate than those of any other New-York paper.

The Tribune follows in the wake of the Sun (as usual) about "President Grant's relatives appointed to office." We have given as much space to that subject as we intend to give—and the people have made up their minds about it. We will undertake to say that if Mr. Greeley achieved the object for which he stumped the South last year, and became Gen. Grant's successor, he would appoint more worthless personal friends, dependents, and hangers-on to office in one year than all his predecessors had appointed since the foundation of the Government. The Tribune also says: "If we have slandered any one, President or pieman, we want to redress the wrong promptly." Do you? Well, why not apologize to Mr. David A. Wells for asserting that he was bribed with "British gold?" This would come with a particularly good grace just now, seeing that you have adopted Mr. Wells' views.

The Assembly has made a very necessary reform in one item of the Supply bill, affecting the County of New-York. The Chamberlain will no longer be entitled to draw the preposterous sum of $40,000 to $45,000, for signing a check once a year for the proportion of the State tax. In lieu of the per centage at present allowed for this service, there has been fixed the annual remuneration of $5,000. This is as handsome an allowance as could possibly be demanded for "receiving and paying into the State treasury the State tax levied and collected in said City and County," and if the ornamental office of Chamberlain is to be kept up at all, represents the maximum which the State ought ever to be called upon to contribute towards its support.

So far as can be judged from the condensed report of Charles A. Dana's evidence before the Naval Investigation Committee, he stands convicted of having made the most reckless and wanton assaults upon the personal character of Secretary Robeson without having a particle of evidence to substantiate them. Horace Greeley's testimony on hearsay before the Custom-house Committee was ridiculous enough; Dana's, before the Naval Committee, is simply contemptible, and will be so regarded by every honest man.

Hoboken appears as the latest and most formidable rival to New-York in the formation of an unscrupulous local Ring, and in the carrying out of something like wholesale confiscation of private property. In another column will be found a detailed statement of the operations of the Hoboken "improvers." It may be read with advantage by all who suppose that municipal jobbery is a plant of any particular soil.

The Enemies of the Republican Party.

We believe it is the opinion of most thinking men that the elections in New-Hampshire and Connecticut must be taken as indications that the country generally is by no means prepared to reject the Republican Party. Politicians of a certain kind may talk about the "mission" of the party being "accomplished;" but that is not the view taken by the people at large. They see that the Republican Party has yet a great deal of work to perform, and that it is work which is not likely to be performed by the Democrats, but seriously opposed, just as it has been in the past. Our finances are in a state which few men dared to hope they would arrive at in so short a period from the termination of the war. The taxes are steadily being reduced, while the debt is melting away under the influence of a wise and an honest application of the revenue. It the Democrats came into power there would be great risk—not to say an absolute certainty—of all this being altered. The proposal to pay the interest of the bonds in paper is still dear to many Democrats, and it is one which would destroy all confidence in our Government at home and abroad, and put an instant stop to those investments in our securities which are constantly being made by all classes of the people. The man who has saved a little money, and wants to put it where it will obtain a good interest with perfect security, naturally turns to United States securities. Once tamper with them, and this mode of preserving our national credit would be destroyed. In three months the Democrats would do us more harm than they could undo in a dozen years.

With reference to the condition of the Southern States, it is equally clear that the Republican Party alone can be trusted to prevent a revival of that unsettled state of feeling which existed during Andrew Johnson's Administration. We need not recall the melancholy history of that period. Many excellent men thought that the South ought to be instantly restored to its old political privileges—President Lincoln was probably of the same opinion, just before his death—and in attempting to carry out their theories they incurred popular displeasure. Subsequent events seemed to show that, in truth, great risks would have been incurred by the instant readmission of the Southern States. The Southern people were not ready to admit that they had been guilty of rebellion. They yielded to superior force, but not to the conviction that the North was right from the beginning and the South wrong. The desire for vengeance, the hope of retrieving the fortunes of the war, still animated a large mass of the people. Jeff. Davis boldly gave utterance to these sentiments only last year, and was everywhere received with storms of applause. It would be the height of folly to forget these facts. The fire was reduced to embers, but the embers were still smouldering. It was at Selma, Ala., that Jeff. Davis made a speech (to which we called attention at the time) in which he avowed that the principle fought for by the South "would ultimately triumph," and that "he had never asked pardon for what he had done, and he never would, for he felt that he had done no wrong." At Atlanta he said to the people: "You went to war upon the same question for which your ancestors contended in the first revolution against the Government of Great Britain—the right of commercial independence and State sovereignty. You secured it in that first war, and State sovereignty must again be restored." We all know by this time what Jeff. Davis and the South meant by "State sovereignty."

Are these ideas dead? Would the Southern people who, only last year, received Jeff. Davis with uproarious cheers and bands playing the "Bonnie Blue Flag," be less cordial to him now? There is no reason to suppose so. A firm—we do not say a severe—hand must still be kept upon the National Government, or it would be placed in serious jeopardy. At the time Davis was "firing the Southern heart" last year, the President was keeping that firm hand upon the Government which our situation required. And what was Horace Greeley, who desires to supersede him, doing? Seeking out Jeff. Davis to exchange compliments with him, and making speeches which justified the friendly meeting.

Put Mr. Greeley in Gen. Grant's place, and what would be the feeling among all the disaffected classes of the South? That they had got rid of the man who would promptly check unlawful disturbances, and had to deal with a man who more than once espoused their cause during the heart of the war, and who when the war was over, went among them echoing, as closely as he dared, the opinions of their "President." We say that no man can look at the facts, and remember what happened last year, without coming to the conclusion that to exchange Gen. Grant for Horace Greeley would be to plunge the country into endless misfortunes. But there is something more than this to be considered. Horace Greeley stands no more chance of being elected President than the man in the moon, but it is possible that he may yet succeed in inflicting some injury upon the Republican Party. This, also, we should regard as a great evil to the country. The only safety for the people, in our opinion, rests in the continued rule of the Republican Party. Any one who strikes a blow at it, therefore, incurs a responsibility which no prudent man would willingly share. Now for months past Mr. Greeley has been strenuously endeavoring to injure his party. His paper has been a mine of wealth for Democratic journals. They quote it by columns, and can invent for themselves no arguments half so powerful against the Republican Party as those with which Mr. Greeley has provided them. A man may not do all the harm he intends to do, but his intentions must count against him.

What if Mr. Greeley's advice had been taken in 1864? The country would have been split into twain, and the South would have gained all it ever asked for. What if his advice prevailed now? He would cause a split in the Republican Party which would not, indeed, result in the attainment of his personal ends, but would suffice to bring the Democrats back to power—with consequences which all but the willfully blind can easily foresee. There is scarcely any infidelity to his party which Mr. Greeley has not committed during the past twelve months. He has thrown unmerited reproach upon it. He has kept out of sight its meritorious work. He refused to perform a purely formal duty in signing the call for the Regular Republican Convention, while he hastened to sign a call for a "bolting" Convention, got up by rejected office-seekers and Democrats in disguise. For offenses a fiftieth part as grave as these, good men have been cruelly hunted down by Mr. Greeley himself. In what terms did he speak of Senator Fessenden? There was another man, of great ability, of pure intentions, of a singularly just and impartial mind. He never flinched from supporting the cause of the North throughout the war—he resolutely defended the Union when Mr. Greeley was badgering President Lincoln to allow the South "to go in peace." And how did Mr. Greeley treat that man in 1866—ay, and down to the day of his death? He branded him as a "traitor," cried for his expulsion from the party, changed his friends into enemies, and even followed him beyond the grave with his malignant slanders and bitter enmity. After he had been dead two years, he was still assailed with a storm of calumny. But now Mr. Greeley preaches "toleration." He asked, on Thursday, "can there be another country on earth where difference of opinion is so severely visited as in this?" Let his own treatment of Senator Fessenden, and of other men dead and living, stand before him as an answer. As a man sows that shall he also reap—even Mr. Greeley may live to experience the truth of that ancient saying.

Our Defeat in Albany.

The apparent "fizzling out" of the Reform movement in Albany, is an exceedingly disappointing thing to all friends of popular government in this City. It was the first effort made on an important scale to meet some of the inherent defects of Democracy. We had long felt the curse in New-York of government by ignorant majorities. There seemed no way of escape from it but by limiting suffrage, which is a peculiarly difficult thing to effect where the persons to be "limited" vote. Under the wave of popular excitement following the revelation of the enormous frauds committed by the Tammany rulers, a new and "reformed" Government was inaugurated in this City, and for the first time in a generation, there was an opportunity of creating a machinery in New-York, which would give intelligence and virtue a share in the control of the City.

The charter was framed after long and careful consideration by some of our most intelligent citizens, and was submitted to the Legislature. It was not, of course, a perfect instrument. There were several features dubious and cumbrous, but on the whole it was better than any instrument we have yet had for this oppressed municipality. It secured an absolute share in the governing assembly of the City—the Aldermen, and in each public Department of the Administration—to the minority, that is, to the great body of intelligent, responsible owners of property and payers of taxes, who for many years have had little to do with the government of this City. It was an experiment proposed to remedy the effects of unlimited Democracy, and one which the most liberal Reformers of the world are now eager to see tested. It would undoubtedly have cured some of the most radical evils of our Municipal Administration. The intelligent classes would have felt some hope again in mingling in public affairs; the indifferent would have been stimulated to do their political duties; those who paid taxes would have wielded some control over those who spent them. We should have had the novel spectacle of the brain and purse of this great City exercising an authority over its public affairs. The cumulative vote would have given a new face to our Municipal Government.

There were, however, some cumbrous features in the new charter. The want of centrality of power and of responsibility was a serious defect; and the continual change of the heads of the most important bureaus, would have brought much confusion into our affairs, while constant elections would have discouraged the class we want to call out, and would have developed the growth of those parasites of a Republic—the "professional politicians." These were defects, but not sufficient to counterbalance the immense benefits of the instrument. The experiment, however, is in all probability defeated.

The old Democratic politicians, like Mr. Tiemann, have proved utterly unable "to change their spots," and are as treacherous to liberty, under its new forms, as they ever were to it under its old, in the days of the anti-slavery struggle. Nor have some of the Republican leaders supported the new movement with any cordiality. Mr. Alvord's defence of the charter was anything but inspiriting. Against the people and the Reformers were massed all the multitude of persons who are either holding offices, or expecting them, from the present officials of the City. We who have fought for the good of our Municipality without reference to party, have been put at a disadvantage by the conflicting cliques of Republicans who wanted power and place. Our own leaders have not seen that the mere power of bestowing a few thousand offices under Mr. Van Nort and Gen. Cochrane, is nothing to the party, compared with the honorable fame of governing a great City honestly and efficiently. The Republican Party was never so strong in New-York as last Autumn, when it had not a place to give on the whole roll of offices. What strengthens a party with the people is not place-giving, but honesty and energy of administration. The men who really debauch and weaken the Republican Party of this City, are such characters as "Brother" Manierre, who, though the President of a "Young Christian" Association, can employ ruffians to beat off the speakers from a Republican platform, and "kick the life out of" its Chairman, and who have always been in affiliation with Tweed and Tammany.

If the Legislature had but given us a charter like that of the Seventy, the very spectacle of a City so well governed would have strengthened the Republican ranks, more than all the places under all the Commissions of the City administration. We assume that the charter is defeated, for it is manifest that the last amendments "take the life out of it." To have a Common Council with two precisely similar bodies, and an exact balance of the two parties, is running the minority doctrine into the ground. To throw the appointments of a thousand offices into the hands of two Judges, is to violate the whole theory of the Reformers in regard to an improved Judiciary. If the Legislature propose to leave us as we are, then is our last condition worse than the first. With those pious and honorable citizens, "Brother Manierre" and "Hank Smith," controlling the Police and the Health Board; with the tools of Tweed in the Public Works, and the streets left to the tender mercies of the Tammany appointees, while a pestilence is threatening, we have a happy prospect for the ensuing year. In only two Departments do we get consolation. Over the finances we have an honorable and firm man, and in our Parks an enlightened and honest administration. A new election, however, under the cloud of defeat and discouragement which the Legislature have caused to gather over us, might oust the incumbents of both these Departments, and leave the City again to a new course of peculation, swindling, and inefficiency.

A Word to the Lawyers.

The Judiciary investigation is drawing to a close. The time left to the Committee to make a report and obtain action upon it, is now reduced to a few days. Whatever remains to be done, therefore, to secure the object of the investigation must be done immediately. We appeal to the members of the Bar to do their part,—to produce the evidence which they possess. Are they sure they have done so up to the present time? They should remember that they are the trustees of the remainder of the community in this matter. It is impossible for non-professional sufferers to break down the technical defenses so easily raised to protect an unjust judge from the consequences of his acts. That must be left to the members of the Bar, who are trained to secure justice in accordance with law, and whose training procures a monopoly of an important and lucrative business. The lawyers have a hundred motives for purifying the Bench, which it is idle to rehearse here. They are perfectly familiar to the profession. But they also have a duty to the people at large, which it will be shameful to neglect.

If the present opportunity is not improved, it will be a long while before another presents itself. No one can say how long. If the present Legislature cannot elicit formal proof sufficient to justify the removal of Judges whose career has been a world-wide scandal for years, what other Legislature is likely to do more? or is there any practical limit to the abuses which the Judiciary may practice with impunity? We tell the lawyers frankly that, if failure does result, they will be held responsible by the people. It will not be thought for a moment that there have been no abuses—but that the lawyers, who must be relied on to prove them, are afraid to tell what they know. And there will be a justice in that conclusion which it will be very hard to contend against.

We do not like to face, even in imagination, the consequences that must flow from the failure of this community to protect itself by the constitutional methods provided from such evils as its corrupt Judiciary has inflicted upon it. There is no severer test of the average morals of a people than the condition of its Courts, and this is most true of a Republic. Are we ready to be judged by the condition of ours in this City? The Bar does not long remain above the level of the Bench. Are the lawyers willing to be rated at the level of our corrupt Judges? It is for them to answer. We make this last appeal to them, and entreat them to lay before the Judiciary Committee today what information they have.

The Railroad Nuisance on Fourth-Avenue.

As we have already noted, the report made by the majority of the Assembly Committee on Railroads, in regard to the sinking of the track on Fourth-avenue, is equivalent to depriving the City of the use of that thoroughfare for all time coming. In addition to this, it renders three-fourths of the streets between Forty-ninth-street and Harlem River entirely useless for cross-town traffic, and makes the remainder, at their point of bisection with Fourth-avenue, dangerous for many purposes, and inconvenient for all. Still further, it directly assails the revenues of the City, and consequently, the pockets of the tax-payers. Already the open-surface track, with all its accompaniments of smoke, danger to life and limb, and hideous and persistent noises, has all but ruined the property-owners on either side of it. The plan reported by the Committee, which provides only for the sinking and fencing of the track, would remove some of the danger at present existing, but would leave the other elements of the insufferable nuisance all but untouched. The bill promises silent signals, which Commodore Vanderbilt has frequently promised to have in operation long ago, but scores of houses are still rendered uninhabitable by people of delicate nervous organization from the never-ending screeching of whistles and ringing of bells. There is but a very slender prospect, therefore, that should the track be sunk only, without being covered over, this nuisance would be in the slightest degree abated. And yet, in return for the very slight concession to public convenience involved in the plan, the tax-payers are to be compelled to pay two millions and a half of dollars, being one-half of the estimated cost of carrying it out. If the citizens of New-York are prepared, not only to surrender the upper part of Fourth-avenue to a combination of railroads, and to submit to the perpetual depreciation in taxable value of millions' worth of adjoining property, but also to give the very poor corporations who own the Grand Central Depot two and a half millions of dollars to perform a small installment of simple justice, then we shall be forced to conclude that this community has of late suffered a wonderful loss of spirit.

Mr. Whitbeck, who is a member of the Railroad Committee, will, we are assured, oppose the majority report when it is presented in the Assembly. In this he will probably be sustained by one or two other members of the same Committee. The bill originally introduced by Mr. Whitbeck presents the only final settlement of the question which either the property-owners or the general public are prepared to accept. The question has been made the special order for next Wednesday morning in the Assembly. Before it comes up for discussion there ought to be elicited a general expression of public opinion on the subject, to strengthen the hands of those Assemblymen who are prepared to see that New-York gets its full measure of justice. It has been repeatedly urged by the Vanderbilt party that the future of Fourth-avenue is a matter of comparative indifference to the people at large, and that the present agitation is merely kept up for the benefit of a few property-owners. Nothing could be further from the truth, and there ought to be convened, without delay, such a meeting as would give unmistakable evidence of the falsity of any such assertions. The meeting to be called for Tuesday evening in Brevoort Hall, will partially meet this requirement, but one at which the general public could be better represented ought to follow it. The railroad companies have no rights over Fourth-avenue which are not founded on public convenience, and whose tenure does not depend on the people's will. We owe it to ourselves and to the great and prosperous New-York of the future that one of our finest thoroughfares should not be made unsightly, dangerous, uninhabitable and all but impassable to traffic for all time coming. The emergency is one of the highest importance, and if this bill be allowed to pass in default of protest, the opportunity for action will never present itself again. It would be an unenviable distinction to go down to posterity as the generation which threw off the yoke of Tammany, but bent its neck to the yoke of Vanderbilt.

The Sorrows of a Holiday.

With the approach of the Summer the annual exodus of City residents to our watering-places will begin, and the familiar spectacle of a public silently submitting to inconvenience, extortion, and insult will be again witnessed. The typical citizen who goes to a watering-place stays at a hotel where an immense amount of discomfort is furnished at a very high price. Of course, his rooms are small and hot. Of this he has perhaps no just reason to complain, since it is only natural that the landlord should prefer to rent two small rooms for the same price each which he could charge for one comfortable room. He has, however, a right to ask that his food should be comfortable, and that he should be secured some small degree of rest and quiet. As a rule, however, his meals are badly cooked and wretchedly served, while, if he is in search of rest, he will find the average railway sleeping-car decidedly more quiet and comfortable than his room at a watering-place hotel.

It is to be presumed that the overworked man who obtains a week's holiday, and decides to pass it at a watering-place, expects to find the quiet of which he is so much in need. In point of fact, he will be regularly awakened every morning at about 4 o'clock by those preposterous persons who infest every hotel, the object of whose misguided lives seems to be to take absurd trains at indecent hours. When these wretched persons have finally departed, and their last trunk has been noisily dragged through the corridors, the boot-black begins his round, and acts as though he had no right to carry away a pair of boots without first making sure that their owner is awake. To him succeeds the riotous persons who set the breakfast-table, and apparently strive with one another in friendly rivalry as to who shall drop the largest quantity of knives and break the greatest amount of crockery. Then follows the hideous clamor of the gong, and the wearied man, conscious of the futility of further hope of sleep, resigns himself to the inevitable, and begins the morning struggle for lost boots and unattainable food.

Perhaps he deludes himself with the hope that by going to bed early he can make up the sleep which he loses in the morning. In this belief, he shuts himself in his room at, say, 10½ in the evening. No sooner is he in bed than a mania for promenading the corridors apparently seizes upon every man with particularly noisy boots. A knot of some half dozen overgrown boys, from eighteen to twenty years of age, then gathers either in an adjoining room or on a veranda in his immediate neighborhood. A mysterious Providence probably never created a being more undesirable to his intelligent fellow-men than the "fast" youth of the watering-place. His idea of pleasure is synonymous with bad whisky, and his theory of manliness involves the noisy use of the most profane language. Within easy hearing of the tired courtier of sleep, this estimable young man devotes himself, until long past midnight, to rehearsing to others of his kind his personal opinions of some fascinating "gal," and the remarks that the "gal" in question has made to him. The natural dreariness of this narration is relieved by frequent blasphemy and unlimited indecency of language. It is greeted at intervals by the inane laughter of his audience, and when it comes to an end, through the exhaustion of the weak inventive powers of the youth, he joins with his comrades in some rough horse play, or not infrequently attempts to howl some particularly unbearable comic song. To remonstrate with him is hopeless, as the most courteous request is met by the foul language with which he asserts his right to make himself as much of a nuisance as he possibly can. There is nothing for the would-be sleeper to do but to wait until the youth has sickened himself with too many cigars, and is forced to retire to his room. By this time the early travelers are already preparing themselves for their dismal journeys, and the broken sleep of sheer weariness is all that is left for the man who has come to a watering-place for the sake of rest.

The discomforts of small rooms and of a limited supply of water; the unattractive character of the table; and the ceaseless noises of the early dawn; the indecent insufficiency of personal accommodations, which is one of the most intolerable features of the watering-place hotel, are all bad enough in their way. These nuisance, however, do not compare with the nuisance of the fast young man. His suppression is demanded by every instinct of civilization and decency, and the hotel-keepers should awake to the fact that he is rapidly rendering the watering-place a burden, and the hotel uninhabitable by decent people.

MINOR TOPICS.

The World has the astounding impudence to deny that it ever eulogized Tweed. To quote the passages in which the World has praised Tweed would involve the patient copying of a hundred or so leading articles from its columns—a proceeding which would give to the World's opinions a circulation which they have never yet enjoyed, but which would hardly meet the views of our readers. It may, however, be worth while to quote from an article on the Mayor's message, in the World of June 13, 1871, the following wholesale praise, not only of Tweed, but of all his fellow-thieves. Referring to the Department of Public Works, of which Tweed was the head, and to the other heads of Departments of the City Government, the World said: "There has been a universal recognition of the respectability and high character of the appointees, and their peculiar fitness for the service in which they are employed. There is not another Municipal Government in the world which combines so much character, capacity, experience, and energy." The men thus eulogized were Messrs. Tweed, Sweeny, and Connolly. Perhaps the World will next deny that it ever heard of Tweed, and class the story that he once held office in this City with the many hoaxes wh'ch it has published during its precarious existence.

An attempt has been made to assassinate the Mikado of Japan—an attempt of which we, as yet, know nothing, except that it was a failure. It is probable, however, that it was the work of the Conservative Party, which is utterly opposed to the policy of free intercourse with foreigners, to which the Mikado is pledged. Had it succeeded, an attack upon all foreigners and Christians now in Japan would probably have followed, and the work of the present Japanese Embassy, now in this country, would have been brought to a summary end. Americans, therefore, aside from mere hatred of assassins, have reason to be glad that the attempt against the life of the head of the Japanese Empire has added another to the long list of fruitless attempts at regicide.

The elections for members of the Cortes held by the electoral colleges of Spain, thus far show a decided victory for the King and his Cabinet. The full returns are not yet reported, but the Ministerialists have secured sixty-seven members to twenty-six elected by the combined opposition. It would appear that the good sense of Spain is convinced that the only safety of the country lies in the support of the Government. King Amadeus may not be precisely the ideal King of enthusiastic constitutionalists, but he is certainly a vast improvement upon the late Queen Isabella, and his Government is the only alternative to anarchy now offered to the Spanish people. The want of Spain is able and patriotic statesmen, who would properly carry out the theory of the Government. Little stability or good of any kind can be expected when the Ministry is, as a rule, turned out by the Cortes once or twice a month.

Jas. M. Scovel being announced as "heading" the Cincinnati movement in New-Jersey, the Brooklyn Eagle remarks that this is > "More credible than the presumption, in that case, of anybody following 'the movement.' This is April, however, and the month belongs to a class of folks said not to be all dead yet. So there may be something in the telegram. We wish well to the Cincinnati Convention, but we advise it to weed out all such as will render it impossible of respectable classification. Sherman's march to the sea is frequently referred to as a brilliant exploit. Some think so and some don't. All agree, however, that the 'bummers' were a confounded nuisance."

No doubt Scovel is a political "bummer," but he was one of the authors of the Cincinnati movement, and to reject all like him would make a plentiful show of empty benches at the Convention. Among the persons mentioned yesterday by the Tribune as joining the New-Jersey bolt was Mr. Charles P. Smith. He distinctly denies having authorized the use of his name. So much for the "improved school of journalism."

Democratic Reform Meeting.

The Apollo Hall Democrats of the Fifteenth Assembly District met last evening at Continental Hall. Speeches were made by Mr. Samuel G. Courtney, Henry J. Clinton and Daniel R. Leddy. The following resolution was offered by Mr. Courtney and adopted with great enthusiasm:

Resolved, That this Reform Assembly District Association request Senator O'Brien to withdraw his letter of resignation, and continue at the capital the good work in which he has been engaged.

OBSEQUIES OF PROF. MORSE.

Services at the Madison-Square Presbyterian Church—Address by Rev. Dr. Adams—The Funeral.

Yesterday all that was mortal of the late Prof. Samuel Finley Breese Morse was laid away in the quiet tomb. The day was beautiful, with a clear sky, a bright sun and a bracing atmosphere, just warm enough to be comfortable. As early as 10 o'clock, the Madison-square Presbyterian Church, where the solemn funeral service was to be performed, began to fill with friends of the deceased. The slips on either side of the middle aisle, throughout its length, were reserved for the family connections, pall-bearers, delegations, and the more intimate friends of the deceased. By 10¾ the church was crowded—every possible seat, except the reserved centre seats, and all available standing room, was occupied; and still a throng pressed vainly at the door for admission.

The removal of the body from the family residence on Twenty-second-street to the church edifice was attended only by the members of the family and the pall-bearers. This was in accordance with the desire of the family, who sought to be involved in as little ostentation as possible. At the head of the catafalque, immediately under the pulpit, stood a table, on which were placed a floral cross, diadem and wreaths made of white tuberoses and immortelles. At 11:05 o'clock a soft, solemn melody seemed to steal down from the organ, announcing the arrival of the corpse, and the next moment the procession entered the middle door of the church, in the following order: First, Rev. Dr. Wm. Adams, Pastor of the Church, and Rev. Dr. Francis Wheeler, of Poughkeepsie, walking abreast and wearing white sashes and rosettes; then followed the remains inclosed in an elegant oblong casket covered with black cloth and ornamented with heavy silver-plated mountings, and borne by eight pall-bearers wearing white scarfs and rosettes. The pall-bearers were Wm. Orton, Cyrus W. Field, Daniel Huntington, Charles Butler, Peter Cooper, John A. Dix, Cambridge Livingstone, Ezra Cornell. These were followed by the family of the deceased, Gov. Hoffman and staff, members of the Legislature, directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company, directors of the New-York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company, members of the National Academy of Design, Evangelical Alliance, Chamber of Commerce, Association for the Advancement of Science and Art, New-York Stock Exchange, &c., &c.

The casket was deposited at the foot of the aisle, in front of the pulpit. The two clergymen entered the pulpit, while the procession occupied the seats in the centre of the church—the pall-bearers filling the two front seats on the left, and the family the two front ones on the right. Gov. Hoffman and staff occupied a seat immediately behind the pall-bearers. A black velvet pall was flung over the casket, and on the top rested floral emblems, among which were a splendid diadem and wreaths. The lid of the case also bore a silver plate inscribed with the name and dates of birth and death of the deceased. As soon as all were seated, the organ, which had continued to breathe out its soft, sad melody, now struck into the beautiful anthem, by Greatorex, and the choir sung:

> "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, write, from henceforth, blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. Even so saith the spirit, for they rest from their labors."

After this, Rev. Dr. Adams read a number of selections from the Scriptures adapted to the occasion, and the choir sung the hymn:

'Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake."

After the close of this hymn the venerable Dr. Adams made a most impressive address. The true value of a good life, he said, can never be lost to the mind. The good which men do live after them and is not interred with their bodies. He is the true Methuselah who originates good thoughts and projects, which live a thousand years after he is dead and laid in the ground. A few days ago a funeral pageant passed along our streets, with flags draped in mourning, arms reversed and muffled drums, bearing the remains of one whom we all loved and honored. We said, "This is the last of him," but it is not so. The body has passed away, but his life has passed into the history of his country. Eminently true is this of the distinguished man who now lies before you. He has left a gap among us. Not only is the loss his family's, but it is a public bereavement. It simultaneously became the topic of remark and the occasion of grief all over the civilized world, even in remote China and Japan. The speaker here went into a biographical sketch of the deceased, referring to the collateral branches of the family. He said he had been called upon to officiate at the interment of the three brothers. He remarked that perhaps no family in the country, through father and son, had been related to more of the events in connection with the advancement of science and Christianity than the family of Rev. Jedidiah Morse, father of the deceased Professor. The life of Prof. Morse belonged to a class that possessed all the interest and charm of an epic poem. While the world was applauding his achievements, he delighted to consider himself only a child of Providence. Dr. Adams closed his address with a glowing eulogy on the character of the deceased in its Christian and philanthropic aspect. He related a number of incidents that occurred during his long and intimate acquaintance with him, revealing the fervor of religious spirit that always glowed within him, and also referred to several affecting periods during his last illness, showing the unfailing and unflagging vitality of that religious faith that had characterized his life.

Rev. Dr. Wheeler made the closing prayer. The choir sang:

"Just as I am without one plea,
But that Thy blood was shed for me."

Dr Adams stated that the hymns sung on this occasion were those which the Professor loved himself to sing.

A considerable time was occupied in allowing the friends and the public a last opportunity to look upon the face of the dead. His appearance was quite natural, the same expression resting on his calm countenance that he wore when he was honored by his fellow-citizens with almost an apotheosis last year; and as the throng moved slowly down the centre aisle, filing past the casket, the organ played a mournful symphony. Mr. Wm. K. Bassford presided at the organ.

The lid was finally closed, and the remains were again taken up and borne out of the church. A large concourse of people had assembled in the street to witness the departure of the cortège. There was no attempt at display. The casket was placed in the hearse, the pall-bearers preceded it in three carriages, and immediately following the hearse were carriages containing the family, and then the Common Council of Brooklyn, members of the New-York Common Council and friends. There were only about twelve or fifteen carriages in all. The remains were conveyed to Green-Wood Cemetery, and placed in the receiving-vault. Brief religious services took place in the presence of his family and a few personal friends, among whom were Gen. John A. Dix, Cyrus W. Field, Gen. Jas. Grant Wilson, Huntington, the artist, and Ezra Cornell.

Capt. Burden had charge of the Police arrangements, and was present with two platoons of officers. There was, however, no occasion for his services, unless it was simply to prevent persons from interrupting the passage from the church to the carriages.

During the day flags were displayed at half-mast on all the public and very many private buildings, the hotels, &c., and the telegraph offices were draped in morning.

At a meeting of the building trades, at the Mechanics' and Builders' Exchange, yesterday, resolutions expressive of sorrow for and sympathy with the public loss in the death of Prof. Morse, were passed unanimously, and a committee of three appointed to have them engrossed and presented to the family.

As a mark of respect for Prof. Morse, the first regular session of the Stock Board was omitted yesterday morning, both in the main hall and in the Government stock-room.

Equitable Life Assurance Society.

The Hon. JULIUS L. CLARKE, Insurance Commissioner of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, having associated with himself the following eminent business and professional men, who are in no manner connected with, or interested in, the management of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New-York, to investigate its affairs, viz: HENRY F. SPAULDING, of Spaulding, Hunt & Co., No. 80 Worth-street, New-York; GUSTAV SCHWAB, of Oelrichs & Co., No. 2 Bowling-green, New-York; GEORGE B. UPTON, Boston, Mass.; WILLIAM H. FOGG, of William H. Fogg & Co., No. 32 Burling-slip, New-York; FELICIANO LATASA, of Latasa & Co., No. 178 Pearl-street, New-York; EUGENE KELLY, of Eugene Kelly & Co., No. 21 Nassau-street, New-York; DAVID DOWS, of David Dows & Co., No 20 South-street, New-York; MORRIS K. JESUP, of M. K. Jesup and Co., No. 59 Liberty-street, New-York; JUNIUS B. WHEELER, Professor of Civil and Military Engineering and Science of War, United States Military Academy, West Point; THEODORE W. DWIGHT, L.L. D., Professor of Municipal Law, Columbia College, New-York; the Committee have made the following REPORT.

NEW-YORK, March 30, 1872.

In the month of January, 1871, the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, were informed by the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of New-York, that LA ROY S. GOVE, who had insured his life in said Society, about one year previous, for the sum of $2,500, had presented certain grave charges against the directors and management of said Society.

Whereupon the President of the Society addressed the following letter to the Superintendent:

JAN. 6, 1871.

Hon. Geo. W. Miller, Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New-York:

DEAR SIR: The counsel of this Society has handed to me a copy of charges with specifications sworn to by a policy-holder. As some of these charges and specifications have not the slightest foundation in truth, and in other cases are grossly exaggerated, and the truth perverted, and as I fully believe each charge admits of the fullest and most complete explanation, I have felt it my duty to address to you this communication.

Conscious that the affairs of this Society have been conducted by the officers with a high integrity of purpose and with a view to the best interests of the policy-holders, and having nothing to conceal as to the condition of the Society or the manner in which its affairs are conducted, I would respectfully request that in the exercise of that authority conferred upon you by law and appointment to your position as Superintendent of the Insurance Department, you would institute such investigation into the condition, affairs and transactions of the Society as you in your discretion may consider that the presentation of these charges demands.

Feeling aggrieved that charges so unfounded should be preferred, jealous of the honor of the Society and that of its officers and directors, I would respectfully solicit that, with as little delay as possible, you would give your attention to the subject.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
(Signed,) WILLIAM C. ALEXANDER,
President.

The Superintendent consequently replied that he would commence an examination of the Company at as early a period as his official duties would permit.

Before an examination had been made by the Superintendent, a person, professing to be the representative of a newspaper in this City, called upon the officers of the Society and informed them that this newspaper had in its possession, for publication, a copy of charges against the Society, made by LA ROY S. GOVE, and that he, the professed representative of the newspaper, was prepared to enter into a negotiation for their suppression. The officers of the Society refused to pay for such suppression, and the charges were thereupon published in the newspaper which the person claimed to represent.

The directors of the Society again requested the Superintendent of New-York to make the examination without delay. But in consequence of the legislative examination of the Insurance Department of this State, the Superintendent was again unable to give it immediate attention. The directors also requested the Commissioner of the State of Massachusetts to make an additional or concurrent examination, which he consented to do, and has associated with himself the undersigned to assist him in the investigation.

Upon assembling at the offices of the Society, the undersigned at once entered upon the investigation of Mr. GOVE's charges made to the New-York Insurance Department, and since widely spread before the public in printed form. The Massachusetts Commissioner, at the meeting called to make the investigation, stated that he caused Mr. GOVE to be notified in writing of the investigation, and had invited him to furnish testimony in support of his charges, and presented the affidavit of personal service of the notice upon him.

Mr. GOVE did not appear or offer any testimony to sustain his allegations.

The minutes of the Society and of the several Committees, the account-books, cash-books and check-books of the Society were then laid before the undersigned and carefully examined. The officers of the Society, and such other persons as the undersigned desired, were examined under oath, and each specific charge was carefully and exhaustively inquired into, and the undersigned certify that, excepting a clerical error in publishing among the list of paid policies, a contested claim, which error was rectified as soon as discovered, the charges and specifications are untrue and malicious. The amount of the policy referred to was returned to the Insurance Department as a liability in accordance with the rules of the Department with regard to contested policies, which fact corroborates other testimony, showing that the error was merely clerical.

The undersigned, following in their investigation the order in which the charges and specifications are presented, find:

1. That the Society possessed the legal power to erect their building, which contains the offices of the Society, at the corner of Broadway and Cedar-street, and the undersigned refer to the opinion of Prof. THEODORE W. DWIGHT respecting the same.

2. They further find that the erection of the building was a wise and judicious measure, and is a safe investment, yielding an increasing annual income of more than five and a half (5½) per cent., leaving the Society free from rent for its own offices; and if the value of the offices occupied by the Society is taken into account, we are of opinion that it has no money invested to better advantage.

3. They further find, that in reference to the compensation of the officers, both the method of payment and the amount paid as charged, are untrue. From the evidence submitted to them, the aggregate sum paid for salaries by the Society during the first eleven years of its existence, as compared with its income during the same period, produces a ratio at least as favorable as that of any life company—for the same years, from 1860 to 1870, inclusive—organized during the year in which the Equitable was organized, or since that time, or even prior to that time, with the exception of two, the preliminary expenses of those two companies not being taken into account in the estimate, because they were organized more than fifteen years previous to 1860.

4. They further find that no loan was made on the 20th of September, 1870, or at any other time, upon New-York Central and Hudson River Railroad stock. But they find, on the contrary, that no loan has been made by the Society except upon securities authorized by and in accordance with the law.

5. The charge that the Building Committee or any of the directors are or were interested, directly or indirectly, in the quarry from which the stone for the building was taken, or pecuniarily interested in any other contract of the Society, was most carefully and minutely examined, and the undersigned declare the charge to be both false and malicious. On the contrary, the undersigned find that the erection of the building in all its details was carefully watched over by the directors, and particularly by the Building Committee, with as much attention as a prudent man gives to his own business.

6. That the mode of loaning the money of the corporation was particularly examined, and meets the approval of the undersigned, who find the charges of favoritism wholly unfounded; and, other things being equal, principals are given the preference over brokers.

7. The Secretary of the Society, who formerly was in business as a fire insurance agent and general broker, relinquished the charge of the fire insurance business of this Society when he became connected with it three years ago. The Secretary has not attended to the fire insurance business of the Company, and no director or officer is or has been interested in such business, nor has the Secretary loaned money on policies, as charged.

8. It is proved to our satisfaction that the directors of the Society have not loaned the money of the Society to themselves upon securities not allowed by law, and that no loans have been made through the favoritism of its officers and directors on inadequate security, or contrary to law.

9. In the opinion of the undersigned, the directors, so far from having managed the affairs of the Society wastefully or extravagantly, have managed them prudently and successfully, and have made no false returns to the Insurance Departments.

10. The rates of commission paid to agents as charged, are untruly stated. No salaries are paid to agents in addition to commissions.

11. They find from the testimony given by the officers and directors, that the establishment of an agency in Great Britain has not proved a failure; that the agent sent there is not inexperienced in the insurance business; that he receives no salary, but that his commissions are guaranteed for three years to an extent of $10,000 per annum, and that the result of his labors, in introducing the Society's business there, has been satisfactory to the Board of Directors.

12. The charge that money has been wastefully spent upon the building is sufficiently answered by our opinion of the investment.

13. They further find that the Society does not falsely advertise itself as a mutual company. The necessity of a capital stock arises from the fact that before the organization of the Society, laws were enacted in New-York requiring all companies organized after such enactment to have a capital stock and to make a deposit of one hundred thousand dollars with the Insurance Department, as a guarantee to policy-holders. The annual dividends upon this stock are limited to seven per cent. This amount is nearly earned by the investment of the capital; all of the profits are divided among the policy-holders; the stock bears no such market price as is charged, and as no unlawful gains can be made thereon, the ownership of the stock can only be desirable for the protection of the Company. The provision as to a stock management is not concealed from policy-holders, but, on the contrary, the directors are of opinion that it forms one of the greatest safeguards of the Company.

14. In conclusion, the undersigned desire to say that they are unable to find an honest motive for the presentation of charges so totally unfounded. This investigation has shown only an honest and efficient management of the Society. The Massachusetts Commissioner, with Profs. THEODORE W. DWIGHT, of Columbia College Law School, and JUNIUS B. WHEELER, of the West Point Military Academy, will at once proceed to examine the details of the management of the Society from its foundation, and Messrs. UPTON, SPAULDING, LATASA, KELLY, SCHWAB and FOGG will examine its assets and investments, which the undersigned will report upon as soon as the investigations are concluded. From the wide publicity given to these charges, it is thought best to make this report upon them at once. The undersigned desire to express their unqualified approval of the action of the Society in resisting the attempt to extort money from it under color of these charges. And finally, the undersigned take great pleasure in bearing their unanimous testimony to the faithful and successful management by the trustees and officers of the Society of the great trust reposed in them.

THE DAILY TIMES of Sunday, April 7, will be issued as a TRIPLE SHEET of twelve pages, in which will be presented sundry features of special interest, first among them being

AN ORIGINAL HUMOROUS POEM, entitled "DEACON BROWN," by JOHN PAUL, giving a Dialectic Excuse for a Good Man.

BORROWED PLUMES contains an installment of clothes philosophy not to be found in Sartor Resartus. The wedding apparel that goes round a hundred wearers, and the funeral costume that fits scores of mourners, will be treated descriptively as to their origin and place of deposit, and the general question of making a respectable appearance on slender means will be exhaustively treated.

Another paper is entitled A VISIT TO BELLEVUE AND POTTER'S FIELD, affording an interesting insight into hospital life and the burial of paupers.

THE INDIAN QUESTION is the title of another article, giving interesting information relative to the Indian Missions and the moral and physical condition of the different tribes.

THE GAME OF KENO in this City is described in a fifth paper, showing the terrible increase of petty gambling houses, and the necessity for their suppression.

WORKING WOMEN, their trials and troubles, are depicted in the sixth of our Sunday articles, showing how women in search of work are annoyed and imposed upon.

Among the other features of our Sunday edition will be found

It is with Pleasure that I Add My Testimony to the excellency of Dr. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT. I have used it in my family for several years, and can truly say that I know of no medicine equal to it for checking and curing the frequent Coughs and Colds to which children are subject at all seasons of the year. I have also realized great benefit from it myself, and have recommended it to others, who almost invariably have learned to value it. I always prescribe it to the students under our care when necessary, and the teachers willingly add their testimony to mine in praise of this medicine.—*J. S. Edwards, Principal of Providence Conf. THE MINOR POEMS OF HOMER.

Containing:

THE LIFE OF HOMER, attributed to Herodotus, including the Epigrams, translated by Chapman.

THE BATTLE OF THE FROGS AND MICE, translated by Parnell.

"A bold, easy and witty mock-heroic composition, not surpassed or even rivaled by many of those which have in subsequent ages followed in its train."

THE HYMN TO APOLLO, translated by Chapman.

THE HYMN TO MERCURY, translated by Shelley.

"One of the most diverting poems in the Greek language. It is pre-eminently humorous, in the best sense of the word. * * * In this hymn, Hermes is gifted with the character of a perfect Picaro, a sort of Lazarillo de Tormes among the gods, stealing their goods, playing them tricks and telling such enormous, such immortal lies, to screen himself from detection, that certainly no human thing could even have the vanity to think of rivaling them on earth."

THE HYMN TO VENUS, translated by Congreve.

"By far the most beautiful of the Homeric hymns—indeed for its length equal in beauty to any part of the Homeric poems. No poet ever surpassed the richness and elegance, the warmth and delicacy, the dignity and tenderness of this exquisite composition."

THE HYMN TO CERES, translated by Hole.

THE MINOR HYMNS, translated by Chapman.

A COMPENDIUM OF COMMERCIAL LAW,

ANALYTICALLY AND TOPICALLY ARRANGED,
WITH
COPIOUS CITATIONS OF LEGAL AUTHORITIES, FOR THE USE OF LAWYERS, LAW STUDENTS, BUSINESS MEN, COMMERCIAL COLLEGES, &c.
By CALVIN TOWNSEND,
Counselor at Law, Author of "Analysis of the Constitution of the United States," "Analysis of Civil Government," &c.
One vol., 8vo. 600 pages. Price $4.

The chief peculiarity of this work consists in the topical and logical arrangement of the subjects embraced, and their analytical divisions and subdivisions.

The range of topics embraces Contracts, Negotiable Paper, Agency, Partnership, Corporations, Guaranty, Sales, Payments, Tender, Liens, Hire, Insurance, Arbitration, Wills, Administrators or Executors.

Though recently published, it has been very warmly commended, as will be seen from the appended extracts taken from a few of the many testimonials that have been received by the publishers:

Judge E. DARWIN SMITH, of the Supreme Court of New-York, says: "The Compendium of Commercial Law is admirably arranged for teaching to the best advantage, and in the shortest possible time, the subjects embraced in the work.

I think it an excellent book for the young lawyer, the law student and the business man. They could hardly put their hands on a better one of an equal number of pages."

T. M. COOLEY, Chief Justice of Michigan, says: "I find the work admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is designed. The author has evidently done a great deal of patient and conscientious work upon it. His methodical habits of mind have enabled him to make its subdivisions clear, and the important points distinct and palpable."

JOHN F. DILLON, Judge of the United States Circuit Court for the Eighth Circuit, says: "It is especially adapted, by reason of its analytical features, for the use of commercial colleges, business men and law students."

GEORGE F. DANFORTH, one of the most eminent lawyers in Western New-York, says of the book: "I have carefully examined the work, and find its arrangement excellent—the statement of legal rules and principles accurate, and the whole book well adapted to serve the designed end.

It cannot fail to be useful in the hands of students, and will serve the purpose of business men better than any similar work to which my attention has been directed."

From the Albany Law Journal, Feb. 3, 1872.

"The Topical Analysis of Contracts, with which the work begins, is complete and exceedingly clear. It is alone worth the price of the book. It may be made profitable to the student of the legal profession. It is copiously furnished with citations, and the statement of principles is, in every instance, concisely made. The style, indeed, is in marked contrast, in point of terseness and brevity, with many of the professional and educational productions of the present day."

Copies will be forwarded by mail on receipt of the price.

CHARLES FREDERICK JOHNSON.

From the fact of the interest taken nowadays in the theories of Darwin and Huxley, the publishers think that the reasonings of this author, one of the finest of the Latin poets, aside from the exalted position his works hold in classical literature, will command considerable attention from the reading public of the present day.

INTERESTING AND VALUABLE WORKS

JUST PUBLISHED BY
HARPER & BROTHERS, New-York.

AROUND THE WORLD. By EDWARD D. G. PRIME, D. D. With numerous Illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $3.

"It is a delightful book of travel. Its interest does not depend upon adventure or novelty of scene; its charm lies rather in the freshness, the geniality, the shrewd insight, and quick, intelligent perceptions that are evident in every chapter. For those who are fortunate enough to possess the money and inclination for foreign travel, and who desire to go beyond the ordinary limit of a Summer tour, the book will be a valuable and entertaining guide; while those whose travels are confined to books and pictures will find a rich source of pleasure and instruction in following the author and his friends in their wanderings around the world, through the many lands and over the many seas which he describes."—Evening Post, New-York.

BALDWIN'S ANCIENT AMERICA. Ancient America, in Notes on American Archæology. By JOHN D. BALDWIN, A. M., author of "Pre-Historic Nations," &c. With Illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $2.

Mr. Baldwin shows beyond dispute that the ancient civilization of this Continent grew up here, and was in no way derived from that of the Old World. In every point of view, whether regard be had to the amount of information embodied in moderate compass, the thoughtfulness with which the theories are evolved from the admitted facts, or the philosophical manner in which facts and theories are conveyed, the volume forms a permanent and valuable addition to the important department of knowledge to which it is devoted.

TYERMAN'S WESLEY. The Life and Times of Rev. John Wesley, M. A., Founder of the Methodists. By Rev. LUKE TYERMAN, author of "The Life of Rev. Samuel Wesley." Portraits. 3 vols., crown 8vo. Cloth. $2 50 per vol. Vols. I and II ready; Vol. III shortly.

" We have been fascinated over his interesting pages, not only with his photographic views of his hero, but with his equally faithful representations of Whitefield and the compeers of those two great ministers of Christ."—Christian Intelligencer, New-York.

LORD BROUGHAM'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY. Life and Times of HENRY, Lord BROUGHAM, Written by Himself. Vol. III., completing the work, now ready. 12mo, cloth, $2.

'Some persons may have expected to find in Brougham's personal reminiscences strong expressions of feeling against those who had been his opponents. But, on the contrary, there is throughout this volume a genial good humor, a judicial desire to be impartial, and a calmness in referring to those with whom he had contended, that places him on a higher pedestal of Christian character than he has ever before occupied. Throughout he is revealed to us as what his mother said he was in boyhood—an Admirable Crichton. No wonder that in the days of his greatest triumphs the mention of his name was sufficient to drive multitudes frantic with enthusiasm for 'Brave Brougham.'"—Independent, New-York.

THE LAND OF DESOLATION. Being a Personal Narrative of Observation and Adventure in Greenland. By ISAAC I. HAYES, M. D., author of "The Open Polar Sea," &c. With Illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1 75.

"It has seldom been our lot to come across a more pleasantly written or unaffected volume of travel and adventure than is 'The Land of Desolation.' The sketches with which it abounds are bold and characteristic. And from every point of view the log of the Panther is as thoroughly good and pleasant a book of its kind as we yet remember to have read."—Examiner, London.

PAINE ON THE SOUL AND INSTINCT. Physiology of the Soul and Instinct, as distinguished from Materialism. With Supplementary Demonstrations of the Divine Communication of the Narratives of Creation and the Flood. By MARTYN PAINE, A. M., M. D., LL. D., Author of "The Institutes of Medicine," &c. 8vo, cloth, $5.

"The work will be found remarkable, not only as a signal exception to the favor which has been so extensively accorded to the 'new views' in physics, but for the learning, vigor and persistency with which they are asserted."—Evening Post, New-York.

MUSIC AND MORALS. By Rev. H. R. HAWEIS, M. A. With Illustrations and Diagrams. 12mo, cloth, $1 75.

" We cannot part from him without an expression of sincere thanks for his sound exposition of principle, and his wholesome criticism, often conveyed with great force, sometimes with real beauty as well."—Saturday Review, London.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

Although several sales were expected to occur at the Exchange yesterday, April 5, no business was transacted except the public auction conducted by D. M. SEAMAN, at which a brown-stone house and lot, located on the west side of Tenth-avenue, between Sixtieth and Sixty-first streets, was offered. No bids were received, while both the proposed legal sales were adjourned as follows: Sale of house and lot on Sheriff-street, between Broome and Delancey streets, by JOSEPH MCGUIRE, adjourned until Monday next, and sale of leasehold property on Fifty-first-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, by JAMES M. MILLER, adjourned until Friday of next week. Today, at Pelham, Westchester County, on the ground, at 12 M., a farm of fifty-four acres will be sold by D. M. SEAMAN, and at White Plains, Westchester County, at 1 P. M., on the premises, a farm of forty-five acres, by JAMES M. MILLER. A legal sale of four lots of land, situate on the north side of One Hundred and Fifty-ninth-street, 100 feet east of Eleventh-avenue, this city, by WM. KENNELLY, is also announced for today, to take place at the Exchange, at the usual hour. In reference to the auction at Waverly, N. J., on Thursday, at which a residence, with six acres of land, was offered by A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO., we learn that no sale was effected. For next week the most important auctions projected, being sales of real interest, are the following: Sales on Tuesday, April 9, by MULLER, WILKINS & CO., of an extensive list of City real estate and of property located at Staten Island, by order of heirs to Little estate interest, and by JERE. JOHNSON, JR., of 250 Brooklyn lots, belonging to the estate of JOHN S. BERGEN, deceased; also, sales on Wednesday, April 10, by JAMES M. MILLER, by order of executors, of 100 City lots, situate respectively on St. Nicholas, New and Tenth avenues and on One Hundred and Thirty-ninth, One Hundred and Fortieth and Pentz streets; also, sale in bankruptcy, by E. H. LUDLOW & CO., of the Union Hotel property, at Saratoga. Full details of all the sales of the week will be found in this column as usual on Monday, and to the list the attention of investors is directed.

SECOND MORTGAGE

8 PER CENT. CONVERTIBLE BONDS OF THE

Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railway,

AT 80 AND INTEREST.

From the time we first offered these Bonds they have been rapidly taken up by investors, leaving but a small amount now for sale, which, at the present price, we consider a very cheap and desirable security, as the road is in successful operation, and earning net more than the interest on all its Bonds. The business of the road is rapidly increasing. Over 1,000 miles of new roads are now building, connecting with and controlled entirely in the interest of this road, all of which will be completed at an early day.

These new roads, it is expected, will add at least 50 per cent. to the net receipts of this Company.

Are now offering, through the undersigned, the

REMAINING $5,000,000

OF THEIR

First Mortgage Sinking Fund 30 Years

7 PER CT. GOLD BONDS

AT

90 and ACCRUED INTEREST.

THE ROAD runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, connecting there with the Chicago and Canada Southern, now being built to Chicago, and will thereby form the SHORTEST TRUNK LINE BETWEEN BUFFALO AND CHICAGO, or, in other words, will be the SHORTEST LINK in the GREAT LINE OF TRAFFIC BETWEEN THE EAST AND WEST, connecting the GREAT SYSTEM OF RAILWAYS which diverges from Buffalo, Toledo and Chicago.

A branch also runs from St. Thomas to St. Clair where it forms connections with the various roads leading into the lumber and mineral regions of Michigan.

THE MAIN line from Buffalo to the Detroit River, is 229 miles long. The branch from St. Thomas to St. Clair is 61 miles, and runs through the great Canada oil region.

OF THE entire line (290 miles) two hundred and twenty miles are graded, bridged and ready for the superstructure. The remaining 70 miles are under contract to be ready for the superstructure early in the Summer.

OF THE 800,000 ties required, 600,000 are on hand and the remainder are coming in daily.

SIX THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED TONS of rails are delivered and paid for, and the balance contracted to be delivered early in the summer, those for the main line being STEEL, all sixty pounds to the yard.

ALL the materials for the stations and a part of the equipment are purchased.

TRACK-LAYING will be begun as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

The entire line will be ready for business on or before Dec. 31, 1872.

THE ROAD is being built by the most experienced railroad men in the country, who are confident of a profitable business for it from the day of its opening.

THE ROAD will be

33 MILES SHORTER THAN ANY OTHER ROAD,

either BUILT or in contemplation, between Buffalo and Chicago.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile, and Ninety-six per cent. of the Road IS STRAIGHT.

The Canada Southern (including its branch of 61 miles to St Clair) and the Chicago and Canada Southern, with their light grades, direct alignment, being the shortest route between Buffalo and Chicago, will admit of the most SPEEDY, ECONOMICAL and SAFE transit attainable for both passengers and freight.

The road thus far has been built by cash subscriptions, and the proceeds of the bonds now offered will complete and fully equip it. The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London, or Frankfort.

We have no hesitation in recommending the bonds AS A PERFECTLY SAFE as well as a PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The Case of Senator Wood Made the Special Order for Tuesday.

New-York City Railway Bills—The Supply Bill Ordered to a Third Reading—Evening Sessions.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, April 5, 1872.

The Senate has been occupied during the entire morning session in considering the case of Mr. JAMES WOOD, the Senator from the Thirtieth District. It being generally known that this case was a special order, and the day being exceptionally fine, the Chamber and the galleries were crowded. The debate was opened by Mr. CHATFIELD, whose remarks consisted mainly of extracts from newspapers in different parts of the State commending his course in introducing the resolution under consideration, and demanding the expulsion of Senator WOOD.

Mr. WOODIN then called for the reading of Mr. SELDEN's argument.

Mr. WOODIN then proceeded with his speech, which occupied an hour and a half in delivery.

A letter was then read from Senator AMES, Chairman of the Committee, who has lain for weeks on a sick bed, who protested against the construction which the Press and the public have put upon his report, and expressed his great anxiety to be present so as to give a vote against the resolution to expel Mr. WOOD.

Senator ALLEN, one of the Committee, then addressed the Senate, but he had hardly proceeded far enough to indicate what his opinions were, when, at the request of Senator MURPHY, who said he was desirous of addressing the Senate upon the question, the matter was made the special order for Tuesday next.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Before taking up the Supply bill in the Assembly this morning, reports were presented from several of the standing committees, including the following, affecting the City of New-York: The Gilbert Pneumatic Elevated Railway was reported favorably and made the special order for Wednesday evening next; the Palmer Elevated Railway, for the west side of the town, was also favorably reported; also, the New-York Arch Elevated Railway, to run through Second-avenue; also, the bill extending the Bleecker-street Horse Railroad. The bill to authorize the Third-avenue Railroad to run palace cars at increased rates of fare was reported adversely, as was also a bill to authorize any railroad of the State to "reorganize" under certain conditions, the effect of which would be to permit an increase of fare. The compromise bill for sinking the track of the Fourth-avenue Railroad, the details of which were given in yesterday's dispatch, was reported favorably and made the special order for Wednesday morning next. The Committee on Cities reported a bill to abolish the Record Commission created in 1870 to index the records of the County Clerk's and other offices in New-York. The same Committee reported favorably the bill which has already passed the Senate repealing TWEED's, "pure and wholesome water" act of last year. The Senate bill to pay Mrs. WYATT, the widow of a member of the Ninth Regiment, killed in the July riots, $5,000, was reported with an amendment authorizing the Controller of New-York City to pay the money immediately and insert the amount in the Tax Levy next year.

THE SUPPLY BILL.

The Assembly finished the Supply bill before adjourning today, and ordered it to a third reading. It has been subjected to a more extended discussion and a more careful pruning than any Supply bill that has passed the Legislature for many years past, and, if there are any "jobs" concealed in it, they have escaped the vigilance of the Assembly aided by Controller HOPKINS, who has been in attendance most of the time it has been under discussion. Many items in the bill, as originally reported from the Committee of Ways and Means, have been stricken out, while the only important item that has been added is the appropriation of three hundred thousand dollars for the State Reformatory at Elmira. This item was advocated and carried on the ground that the State had already committed itself to the erection of the institution, and that the sooner it was completed the more economically the work would be done. As the Controller is authorized to scrutinize and reject, in his discretion, any bill that may be presented for outlays, and as he has already refused to pay an extravagant bill for furnishing offices for the managers of the Reformatory, there cannot be much doubt that the appropriation will be properly expended. The sum total of the items in the Supply bill, as it has passed the Assembly, is about three million dollars. It has yet to undergo the manipulation of the Senate, where it is likely to be increased rather than diminished.

GETTING INDUSTRIOUS.

The Assembly passed a resolution this morning to hold evening sessions every day of the week hereafter except Saturday, and to commence the morning sessions at 10 o'clock instead of 11.

Passage of the Albany Police Bill Over the Veto—Gov. Hoffman's Trickery Exposed—Election Day a Legal Holiday.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, April 5.—The Assembly this evening passed the Albany Police bill over the veto of the Governor by a vote of 68 to 25. This is the first instance in which the Governor's veto has been overruled since Mr. HOFFMAN has held the office. The bill provides for the election of four Police Commissioners, to hold office for four years, and the election is to take place on Tuesday next. The Governor's chief objection to the bill was that it made no provision for the removal of any of the Commissioners in case of misconduct. Mr. SPRINGSTED, who moved the passage of the bill notwithstanding the veto, said that its friends proposed to introduce a supplementary bill, obviating this objection, but it could not be done till after the election. Mr. D. B. HILL, Democrat, protested against the proposed action of the majority, but he was reminded by Mr. ALVORD that Gov. HOFFMAN had often signed bills, when his party controlled the Legislature, that were open to the same objection made to this bill, and cited the New-York Charter and its subsequent amendments, wherein authority was given to appoint Municipal officers for a term of five years, with no power of removal vested in any one. New-York was now suffering from those very laws which received the prompt sanction of Gov. HOFFMAN when passed by a Democratic Legislature. He also called attention to the fact that the Governor had always been in the habit of notifying the friends of such bills as he objected to, in order that they might have an opportunity to recall them and have them amended to suit his wishes, but in the case of this Albany Police bill he carefully concealed his objections and held the bill in his hands until it was too late to recall and amend it in time for the election. Mr. ALVORD moved the previous question, and the bill passed by a party vote—Messrs. WHITBECK and HART alone among the Republicans voting against it.

The bill making the day on which the State election is held a legal holiday, was ordered to a third reading.

The Insurance Committee—Argument in the Miller Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—The Insurance Committee held a meeting this afternoon, to hear the summing up of the evidence, WM. H. BARNES, Ex-Superintendent of the Insurance Department, speaking for the prosecution, and GEO. W. MILLER, the present Superintendent, speaking in his own defence. The arguments were not concluded when the Committee adjourned.

Hahnemann Hospital.

NO. 157 EAST FIFTY-SIXTH-STREET,
NEW-YORK, Friday, April 5, 1872.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

On taking up your valued paper this morning I was greatly astonished to find an article preferring charges against me and my administration of the Hahnemann Hospital. The charges, as made, are of so serious a character that their refutation becomes imperative, not only to clear my reputation personally, but also the good name and standing of the hospital. The charge "that it is a well-known fact that small-pox has appeared in the wards of the hospital," I brand as a malicious falsehood.

I have been the administrative officer of the Hahnemann Hospital for the past three years, and I am prepared to make affidavit that during all that time there has been no case of small-pox in the hospital, nor is there any such case in its wards, consequently the falsity of "Many Residents'" charge, that there has been a death from small-pox in the hospital, becomes evident. As regards my omnipotent influence with the gentlemen in the Health Board being used to "hush" matters, I have only to say that I do not now know, nor have I known, who the gentlemen are who constitute the Health Board Commission. Not knowing the gentlemen, it follows that I could not have used "my omnipotent influence." I am prepared to make affidavit that I have neither directly or indirectly had any communication with the Commissioners of the Board of Health. I have personally inquired of two of the alleged signers of the "Round Robin," and they declare themselves ready and willing to make affidavit that they never saw the "Round Robin" until it appeared in your columns, consequently their pretended signature is a villainous forgery. As regards the remaining two signers, I am unable to find out who they are, or where they reside.

In conclusion, I desire to reiterate that the charges preferred in the article in question are malicious falsehoods.

(Signed,) F. SEEGER, M. D.,
Chief Physician Hahnemann Hospital.

This shall certify that we have been connected with the Hahneman Hospital located at Nos. 307 and 309 East Fifty-fifth-street, and that we are prepared to make affidavit that no case of small-pox has been in the said hospital, nor has there ever been a death from this disease in its wards.

House Physician.

The Equitable Assurance Society.

We publish in another place the report of an eminently respectable, as well as responsible, commission of merchants and others, instituted at the request of the Equitable Assurance Society of this City, in answer to a series of charges, designed to be damaging to the good name and prosperity of the Society, which appeared in a Sunday paper of no enviable reputation, a month or two ago. This commission or committee are wholly disinterested, as directors of the Society, but were chosen with exclusive reference to their standing as merchants and thorough acquaintance with accounts, except in the instance of Mr. CLARKE, the Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts, and Profs. THEODORE W. DWIGHT and JUNIUS B. WHEELER, whose technical and scientific knowledge of the business and calculations of life insurance add to the completeness of the report.

It might be a matter of public surprise that the Equitable Society should deem it necessary to reply to charges of maladministration from such a source, and on the professed authority of a policy-holder for $2,500, whose very name is unknown to the community, and who has failed to come forward to make even the semblance of proofs of his extravagant allegations, under other circumstances than the recent awakening of the popular attention to the intrinsic defects and shortcomings in the general system of life insurance as now conducted, under extraordinary and extravagant, not to say unsafe, competition in this State. These discussions, not only proper, but timely in themselves—and to which the TIMES has been no unwilling party—were doubtless availed of by the Sunday paper in question, first to put in shape the charges designed to be used against the Equitable Society, and then to hold them over the executive management as the means or for the purpose of making profit by their suppression. Failing in this purpose, the "charges" were given to the public, with all the sensational display and particularity which an inventive fancy, with the help of the smallest grains of fact derived from the "aggrieved" policy-holder, was capable. And the managers of the Equitable Society deserve credit for the prompt and manly way in which they have met the attack, as well through an exhaustive pamphlet reply of their own to all and singular of the allegations, as through the report of the able and disinterested Commission now presented.

The German Reform Movement.

The Central Committee of the German Reform organizations, Mr. OSWALD OTTENDORFER presiding, met last evening, when the Executive Committee submitted the following plan, for the joint action, in the coming charter election, with the Council of Political Reform:

That a convention of delegates from the Council of Political Reform and of the German Reform organizations, shall be formed to nominate candidates for the several City offices, and to act as a Board of Apportionment in assigning to each body the number of delegates who are to meet in their respective Senatorial districts to make local nominations; these nominations subject to the approval of the Convention; further, that the practical work of the campaign shall be conducted by the above Convention in conjunction with the Committee of Seventy.

This plan was adopted, and arrangements were made to carry out the same.

EXHIBITION OF SELOUS'
TWO GRAND PICTURES
OF JERUSALEM.

I.
IN HER GRANDEUR,
WITH
Christ's Triumphal Entry
INTO THE HOLY CITY.

II.
IN HER FALL,
AS NOW VIEWED FROM
The Mount of Olives.

These great works contain upward of 250 special points of interest, and more than 200 highly-finished figures. They are painted in the most imposing manner, and have created a most extraordinary interest in England, where they were viewed by upward of 500,000 persons.

EXTRACTS FROM N. Y. PRESS.

NEW-YORK EVENING POST.

Mr. Selous' two pictures of Jerusalem—one representing the city as it appeared in the days of its prosperity, and the other showing it as it is today—have been on exhibition for some time, and have attracted general attention. Those who are familiar with the Jerusalem of today pronounce the latter picture a marvel of accuracy, while a comparison of the historical references to the ancient city will convince any one of the careful judgment with which Mr. SELOUS has reproduced the various features of the old Jerusalem. Both pictures are remarkable in two ways; they combine the highest realism with the grandest general effect.

JEWISH MESSENGER.

Great as works of art, they appeal likewise to our holier feelings, and we see depicted, as never before, the city of our past glory and future hopes.

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

The pictures are attracting the attention they deserve, from clergymen and the general public; there could be no better opportunity of giving to young people a correct and vivid idea of the scene of the most momentous event of all history.

NEW-YORK TIMES.

We feel that we have before us a city over which the storms of centuries have passed—one wherein there lies buried many dark secrets which we hope to get at some day, but which may perhaps never be revealed. Of "Jerusalem in her Grandeur," we can only say that if it is not an exact representation of the city on which Christ looked when he uttered the prophecy, "See'st thou these great buildings? I tell you that not one stone of them shall remain upon the other," it is a grand conception of what she might have been in her palmy days, and does infinite credit to Mr. Selous' taste and imagination. We know not where an hour could be more profitably and pleasantly spent than in an examination of these two fine works of art.

NEW-YORK OBSERVER.

Selous' pictures of Jerusalem—one representing the Holy City in its grandeur at the period of Christ's triumphal entry, the other representing the city in its present state—should be visited, not only by the lovers of the fine arts, of which they are remarkable specimens, but by all readers of the Bible. The view of the modern city, Jerusalem as it is, perspective, tone and color, in accuracy of detail, in vivid representation of all the chief points of interest, and in finish, is the most satisfactory representation of the city that we have ever seen. In looking upon it, we feel almost as if we were standing on the Mount of Olives, actually looking down again upon the desolated city. Nothing seems to be wanting to make the view complete, and the marvelous execution of the artist makes the whole seem, as it were, reality.

The picture of the city before its fall, which perhaps will be the most striking, is not a work of fancy. All the details are the result of careful study of the Bible, of Josephus, and other authorities, and is an impressive exhibition of what the Holy City might have been when it was the glory of the Jewish nation. The effect of the picture is grand, elevating, and highly suggestive. The accessories of both pictures are admirably managed, and give truthful representations of Oriental scenes.

NEW-YORK COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER.

The fidelity as to detail is simply wonderful. Every rock, mound, ruin; every causeway or foot-path; every building, and even the very stones that compose the walls, are portrayed with a minuteness and finish that indicate the patient labor, profound study and incomparable skill of the artist. One's first impression on beholding them is as if he had been suddenly transported to the Mount of Olives, and were gazing down upon the Holy City in the golden flush of the Syrian sunset. They strike you with a consciousness of reality; and so powerful is this impression that it seems as if you had but to peep around the frame of the pictures to catch a view of the entire landscape. Viewed simply as works of art, they will repay the most careful examination of the connoisseur; but as a vivid, accurate delineation of the principal scenes of the Messiah's pilgrimage from Bethlehem to Calvary, they possess an attraction that no man or woman in New-York should fail to enjoy.

NEW-YORK HERALD.

It would perhaps have been impossible for an artist to have selected a subject for his pencil more full of deep and lasting interest to the civilized world than that which Mr. Selous has chosen. Whether we look upon Jerusalem from the merely historical point of view, or turn to it with feelings of religious awe, as the scene of the awful sacrifice which was the price of man's redemption, it possesses for the intelligent mind an absorbing interest. We must compliment Mr. Selous on the remarkably effective manner in which he has dealt with his subject, and the evidence which they furnish of real artistic feeling on his part.

The composition of the work is bold and free, with sense of distance and space well conveyed. What lends the greatest importance to Mr. Selous' work is the truthfulness and the almost photographical fidelity which marks his drawing. On this point we have the evidence of a number of distinguished travelers who have dwelt long in the Sacred City, and are necessarily familiar with the scene. No one who takes an interest in the history of the Christian Church ought to neglect to visit the exhibition.

NEW-YORK TABLET.

Probably the best and most accurate paintings of Jerusalem which were ever made are those by Mr. Selous. In one the artist has attempted to bring the scene of our Lord's entry into the Holy City, on Palm Sunday, before our view. The reconstruction is made from careful observations, and the result is a most satisfying and beautiful picture.

Of the other—Jerusalem as it appears today—no words can frame too high an eulogy. The traveler is supposed to stand on the Mount of Olives, as he comes from Bethany, and to be at the spot where our Lord wept over the city. The whole view is put on the canvas with marvelous fidelity, so that any one who has visited the Holy City imagines himself again there—looking as he gazed before, and finding familiar objects before his sight. The picture, both as a complete work and in minute details, is wonderfully accurate, and has elicited, as it fully deserves, the very highest praise.

The writer of this brief notice lived two months in the Holy City, and, while adding his testimony to the fidelity of the painting, would express the hope that many Catholics will visit these beautiful pictures, confident that they will be gratified and instructed.
